DOWNTON is a parish, formerly a market town, giving name to the hundred, situated in a vale, watered by the Upper Avon in three channels, with a station on the Salisbury and Dorset Junction railway, 7 miles south-east-by-south from Salisbury, and 90 from London, in the Southern division of the county, petty sessional division of Salisbury and Amesbury, Alderbury union, Salisbury county court district, rural deanery of Wilton, and archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The place is of considerable antiquity, and formerly returned two members to Parliament, but was disfranchised by the Reform Act in 1832. The church of St. Lawrence was restored in 1860: it is a large cruciform flint and stone structure of mixed architecture, dating from the 12th century: it consists of fine chancel of the 14th century, nave, aisles, south porch, and north and south transepts: rising from the intersection is a square, massive embattled tower, with four pinnacles, and containing a clock and 6 bells: the tower, which had been raised, has been reduced to its original height: the church contains monuments to the Duncombe family; the principal are those of Anthony, Lord Feversham, of Downton, who died in 1763, and of Sir Charles Duncombe, who died in 1711: there are 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1599. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Nunton annexed, returned of the gross yearly value of £560, net £382, including 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of Winchester College, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Arthur Du Boulay Hill M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford. South Lane Baptist chapel is a substantial building in a plain Italian style, erected in 1857: the interior is chaste and elegant, and will accommodate about 350 persons: the present minister, Rev. J.T. Collier, has held office for more than 42 years. There are also chapels for Methodists and Wesleyans. The charities are: Stockman's charity, of £70 yearly, derived from a farm in Whiteparish, left in 1626, by William Stockman, of Downton, for distribution to those who are surcharged with children; Woodland's charity of £45 yearly, left in 1882, by John Woodlands esq. of Downton, for distribution among the aged poor of both sexes; Noyes's charity, derived from the interest of £200, left in 1784 by Mrs. Emma Noyes, to be given to the schools of Charlton and Downton; Clarke's charity, derived from the interest of £900, left in 1878 by Archdeacon Liscombe Clarke, a former vicar of Downton, to be divided between the National schools of Downton and Redlynch. Here are paper and corn mills, and a tan yard. Malting is also carried on to a considerable extent, and there is brick-making and lime-burning. Here is a reading room well supplied with daily papers and literature. The market has long been discontinued, but two annual fairs are still held, on the 23rd April and 2nd October, principally for horses, sheep and cattle. Barford Park is in this parish, 300 acres in extent: a large house, bearing the same name, formerly stood in the park. An earthwork of considerable dimensions has existed in Downton from an early period, which, from its position, commanded the river Avon and the valley through which it flows: the name—the Moot—points to its having been used by the Saxons for their Folk Mote, or Parliament: the only remains—a large conical mound and some lofty earthworks—have been formed into terraces, amidst the plantations of a garden belonging to E. P. Squarey esq. On a high hill, overlooking Downton from the other side of the valley, is an entrenched area, called Clerbury Camp. Cerdic, the Saxon, gained the battle of Cerdic's Ford, or Charford, in the meadows below Downton, in A.D. 519. The Earl of Radnor is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Earl of Radnor, Earl Nelson, William Eyre Matcham esq. D.L., J.P. Mrs. Morrison, and the governing body of Winchester College; the latter hold the great tithes. The soil is alluvial, chalk and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 1205 acres of land, and 90 of water; rateable value, £13,8[illegible]; the population in 1881 was 3,378.

Parish Clerk, Edward Plaskett.

CHARLTON is a tithing 2½ miles north, and ecclesiastical parish, formed out of the parishes of Downton and Redlynch in 1851. The church of All Saints is an edifice of brick in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and western belfry with 2 bells; a floriated cross surmounts the chancel: there are 167 sittings. The register dates from the year 1851. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value, £200, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Downton, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Charles Lepage Sanders. The church of St. Mary, at Lover, an edifice of brick in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and small turret containing a clock and one bell: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1837. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £[illegible]0, including 2 acres of glebe, with Gothic residence, in the gift of the vicar of Downton, and held since 1872 by the Rev. Nicolo Walke B.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. Here are chapels for Wesleyans, Baptists and Primitive Methodists. A Burial Board, consisting of 6 members, was formed in March 1885, and the churchyard extended. New House, an old Elizabethan mansion, is the seat of William Eyre Matcham esq. D.L., J.P., it is situated in its own grounds, and approached through an avenue of oaks half a mile in length. The principal landowners are Mrs. Morrison and William Eyre Matcham esq. D.L., J.P. FONTHILL GIFFORD is a parish, 16 miles west from Salisbury, 2 from Tisbury station on the Salisbury and Yeovil branch of the London and South Western railway and 9½ north-east from Shaftesbury, in the Southern division of the county, Dunworth hundred, Hindon petty sessional division, Tisbury union, Shaftesbury county court district, Chalk rural deanery Tisbury portion, archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The adjunct Gifford seems to have come from a family that held this with 14 other manors in Wilts soon after the Conquest. A stream which rises in the parish flows onwards to Tisbury, thence to Salisbury. The church of the Holy Trinity, built in 1866, at the cost of the late Marquess of Westminster, stands on the site of the church built by Alderman Beckford, and the style of architecture is that of France in the earlier part of the 14th century: it has chancel with apsidal end, nave, north and south transepts, porches and a vestry projecting on the north side: at the south-west angle, formed by the chancel and transept, is a tower containing one bell, with pinnacles and spire; the entrance is through the base of the tower: the interior is lined with fine white Bath stone, ornamented breast high with a string-course of greenstone; two equal arches, supported by columns of Devonshire marble, with beautifully sculptured capitals of freestone, separate the transepts from the nave, and the chancel arch is supported by columns of green Irish marble, the arch being groined, with moulded ribs springing from Purbeck marble columns; the apse has fine Early English windows: there are two cinquefoil windows on the north side of the chancel, and at the west end, above two Early English windows, divided by a buttress, is a fine circular stained window: the pulpit, which is of alabaster, resting on a base of marble, sculptured with the heads of the four evangelists, and the font, which is of freestone, supported by a column of green marble, were given by Alfred Morrison esq. of Fonthill House. The date of foundation stone of the old church, built into the wall of the vestry of the new, is May 18th, 1748. The register dates from the year 1518. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £320, with 36 acres of glebe, in the gift of Sir Michael Robert Shaw-Stewart bart. and held since 1886 by the Rev. William Henry Lewis M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. Here is a Congregational chapel. In the neighbourhood, where once stood the Abbey of Fonthill, are the downs, now nearly covered with woods and pastures: it was here, on the site of one of these natural elevations, that the late Mr. Beckford erected that modern display of architectural grandeur—Fonthill Abbey, which had a magnificent octangular tower, full 300 feet high, which could be seen from an eminence at 20 miles' distance on the London road, 4 miles before entering the city of Salisbury. The scene of magnificence which was displayed when this building was standing excited great curiosity; but that extraordinary object had more beauty than solidity, for soon after it had passed into the hands of John Farquhar esq. of London, the central tower came to the ground on St. Thomas' Day, 1825, levelling in its fall the whole of the western part of the Abbey, the cause being that the builder had dishonestly neglected the foundations, as had been confessed by his foreman on his death bed: Fonthill Abbey was never repaired, but soon after sold and the ruins removed. The estate is now divided, Alfred Morrison esq. possessing the old park and Sir M. R. Shaw-Stewart bart. the remaining portion of these beautiful grounds including the site on which stood the Abbey, near which the Marquess of Westminster erected the present splendid Fonthill Abbey, the seat of Sir Michael Robert Shaw-Stewart bart. D.L., J.P. Fonthill House, the seat of Alfred Morrison esq. D.L., J.P., F.R.G.S. is situated in park-like grounds containing a large lake. The principal landowners are Sir Michael Robert Shaw-Stewart bart. D.L. who is lord of the manor, and Alfred Morrison esq. D.L., J.P. The soil is some sand and other heavy clay land; subsoil, clay and gravel and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and some land in pasturage. The area is 964 acres; rateable value, £2,255; the population in 1881 was 478.

HILMARTON is a parish, situated on the road from Calne to Wootton Bassett, 3 miles north-north-east from Calne, 7 south-west from Wootton Bassett, in the North-Western division of the county, hundred of Kingsbridge, Calne union, petty sessional division, and county court district, rural deanery of Avebury, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. Lawrence has chancel, nave of four bays, north aisle, south porch and organ chamber, and a square embattled western tower, surmounted by four pinnacles and containing 6 bells: in 1840 the tower was partly rebuilt: the windows of the nave are all of the Perpendicular period, probably about Henry VI.'s time: the nave is separated from the aisle by columns of the Early English order, and the chancel is entered from the aisle through an opening of unusual character in the buttress of the chancel arch: the chancel windows are all Perpendicular and stained, the east window,a memorial to W.H. Poynder, the north window to Mrs. Elizabeth Goddard, wife of the Rev. Canon Goddard: in the aisle, towards the east end is a founder's tomb, without any recumbent figure, and near it a memorial window of three lights to the Rev. Francis Fisher, late vicar, and to the left of this a two-light window to Isabella Poynder: the chief monuments in the church are those of Calley, Quinton, and Thomas Poynder esq. who partly restored the church (1840), his son, Thomas H. A. Poynder esq. and Mrs. M. A. Poynder: the seating is chiefly of old oak, of handsome carved pattern: the greatest curiosity of the church is the old chained bible, with wooden binding, well restored by the late vicar, who found it in the parish chest in a neglected state, the original chain still attached, and replaced it at the chancel arch: the tower contains a fine peal of 6 bells, one of which is new, the rest of old date; these were in 1885 rehung and retuned and put in complete repair by subscription during the incumbency of the present vicar, and were opened by a service, May 26, 1885, and the vicar in 1889 added a chiming apparatus: the late Mr. Street, the eminent architect, at the cost of the late William H. Poynder, restored almost the whole church, and added an organ chamber to the south of the chancel: the church was re-opened on the 24th February, 1881, and has 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1645. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £409, including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the patronage of the Crown, and held since 1858 by the Rev. Francis Goddard M.A. late scholar of Brasenose College, Oxford, surrogate and J.P. and late rural dean and canon of Salisbury. The Congregationalists and Primitive Methodists have each a chapel at GOATACRE tithing, 1½ miles north, in this parish and the Baptists have a chapel here. Jacob's charity of £10 yearly is for the second poor, and the interest of £300 stock for religious education. Here is a reading room, with a library of 150 volumes; there is also a reading room at Goatacre. Here are five almshouses, erected by the late William Pynder esq. lord of the manor of Hilmarton, in the year 1717, and endowed with £3,000 £2¾ per cent. Consols to provide 6s. per week for five inmates, eligible at the age of 65 years, who have worked on the estate. The principal landowners are Sir John Poynder Dickson-Poynder bart. who is lord of the manor and lay impropriator, Worcester and Magdalen Colleges, Oxford, Thomas Pinnegar esq. Mr. W. A. A. Lane, Mrs. Henly, and Messrs. R. and S. Stiles. The soil is Oxford clay, oolitic, except Cleevancy district, which is on the chalk and greensand; subsoil of Goatacre is coral rag, of Hilmarton other forms of oolite; large drainage operations have been carried on by the late Mr. Poynder and the trustees of his estates. The area is 4,582 acres; rateable value, £5,8; the parish contained 756 inhabitants in 1881.

BEVERSBROOK, 1 mile south, and CATCOMBE 1 mile north, are tithings, CLEEVANCY 2½ miles east, and GOATACRE 1½ miles north, are hamlets; a district called New Zealand forms a part of Goatacre.

The register dates from October 6th, 1563. In 1582 the following memoranda appear:—"Here the plague began, 4th May," and "here the plague ended, 6th August." The living is a vicarage, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £350, gross £386, including 20 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Earl Cowley J.P. and held since 1856 by the Rev. Edward Charles Awdry B.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. Here is a Congregational chapel. Newman's charity of £6 a year, and Taylor's of £1, are distributed on St. Thomas' Day (Dec. 21), and Woodroffe's, £1 10s. on Michaelmas Day: Bowerman's, of £5, is payable from Christ's Hospital to the school: six almshouses, of two rooms each, were built and endowed by Alderman Lyte in 1675, for poor men; Thomas White's gift of £200 is also applied to the further maintenance of this charity. In 1664 William Woodruffe, yeoman, of Chippenham, left 30s. a year "in remembrance," as he recites in his will, "of God's mercy in preserving me in a wonderful manner from drowning at Peckingell Bridge;" for this sum a sermon is to be preached yearly, in which the minister shall excite the people to be mindful of mercies received and thankful for the same. John Britton, the eminent antiquary and topographer, was born here 7th July, 1771. The chief farms are Heywood, Lodge, Easton Piers, Swinley and the Priory; on the last-named estate stand the remains of a house of Benedictine nuns, dedicated to St. Mary, and now occupied as a farm house: in the terraced garden stone coffins have been found, and in the old hedges grow a number of barberry trees, "which 'tis likely," says Aubrey, "the nuns used for confections." The cross stood at the north end of the village, "where," according to the same writer, "there was a little market for fish, eggs, butter and such small gear." The old manor house was taken down in 1863 and a mansion built by Herbert Prodgers esq. J.P. in which all the carving of the old manor house was worked into the north front of the new one. The manor belonged to the Abbot of Glastonbury and the manorial rights are now held in thirds by the descendants of Sir Charles Snell, knighted in 1616, whose ancestor became possessed of the church lands at the Reformation. The largest landowners are Sir John Neeld bart. M.A., D.L., J.P. of Grittleton, Earl Cowley J.P. of Draycot Cerne, Walter Colem esq. J.P. of Langley Fitzurse, and Herbert Prodgers esq. J.P. The soil is corn brash; subsoil, forest marble. The land is arable and pasture; a wood, called Heywood, extends over the south of the parish. The parish contains 2,411 acres, rateable value, £2,837; the population in 1881 was 457. A small portion of this parish is within the ecclesiastical parish of St. Paul. See CHIPPENHAM.

EASTON PIERCY is a tithing half a mile north-west, with a population of 30 in 1881: it contains four small farms and once had a chapel with graveyard and cross; the fine old manor house has been now converted into a farm house. At Lower Easton, John Aubrey, the distinguished antiquary, was born, 3rd November, 1626.

KINGTON LANGLEY, or Langley Fitzurse, a tithing and hamlet of this parish, has been formed into a separate ecclesiastical parish. See LANGLEY FITZURSE.

NGLEY BURRELL is a parish and scattered age, situated on the river Avon and on the road from ppenham to Swindon, 1½ miles north from Chippenham, uth from Malmesbury and 11½ north from Devizes, in North Western division of the county, hundred, petty ional division, union and county court district of Chipham, rural deanery of Chippenham, archdeaconry of stol and diocese of Gloucester and Bristol. The Burrells ciently Borel) were, at the time of the Survey, tenants er Edward, Earl of Salisbury, and they held the manor about the year 1300: in a document of the date 1240, n Borel, or Burel, one of the family, conveyed to the ot of Glastonbury "one croft in the village of Langlegh el which is called Penicroft." This name is still in tence in the parish, in connection with ground near kingell Mead: probably at a later date two farms, conng of 115 acres, called Peckingel, were detached from gley Burrell, and granted by one of the Borels to the ot of Glastonbury, who attached them to his manor at gley, the name of a district which in William the queror's reign included Langley Fitzurse and Kington Michael. Peckingel farms, with the Barrow farm nerly in Slaughterford), and other portions of Chipham, Hardenhuish and Langley Fitzurse, by the United shes Acts of 1884, have now been absorbed into Langley ell. In A.D. 1304 the manor belonged to Sir John mere, who, with Alice his wife, obtained a license for ratory in the "manor of Langley and Lye;" his last entation to this church was in 1342. In 1343 Thomas, l Berkeley, purchased the manor and advowson of Sir elamere, and gave them in the same year, with £2,000 oney, to his daughter Joan, on her marriage with Sir nald Cobham. The Cobham arms (a chevron with stars) appear on the ceiling of the nave, and to this ly is traditionally ascribed the building, or, more cory, the repairing of the church. In 1460 Ralph Neville, of Westmorland, in right of his wife, Margaret Cob-, held the property. In 1469 Langley Burrell had d to Edward de Burgh, second Baron de Burgh of sborough, on his marriage with Anne, daughter of Sir nas Cobham. The manor was sold in 1565 by the de hs to John Read, and in the twentieth of Elizabeth, was discharged from feudal homage to the Earls of bury. In 1601, Henry White, then owner of Grittlebought the manor, and about 1660 his grandson sold it muel Ashe esq. in whose family it has remained ever . The church of St. Peter is an edifice of stone, conig of chancel, with south chantry, nave of three bays, aisle, south porch, with parvise, reached by a winding and a western embattled tower containing 4 bells: the and portions of the chancel are Early English, the tower rated, and the north aisle and south chantry Perpendi-: against the west wall of the tower is a monumental , with two heads, of a male and female, under a y, probably of the Cobham family: there are 246 gs. The register dates from the year 1607. The is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £230, gross yearly £400, including 113 acres of glebe, with residence, in ift of the representatives of the late Rev. Robert M. and held since 1879 by the Rev. John Jeremiah Daniell J.P. for the county. Maud Heath, described in old deeds as of Langley Burrell, in 1474 gave houses and land in and near Chippenham, for the making and maintenance of a "causey," or stoned path, from Bremhill to Chippenham; she enfeoffed certain gentlemen, who, on the death of co-trustees, successively appointed others, who have been usually chosen from the gentry and clergy of the four parishes through which the causeway runs: it is 4½ miles long, and is endowed with property in Chippenham to the annual value of between £100 and £200: the iron bridge over the Avon at Kellaways was constructed about 1870 with money raised on this trust; and the long pathway there raised on numerous arches is maintained from the same fund. In the year 1652 a book was written by Edward Stokes esq. of Tytherton Lucas, entitled, "The Wiltshire Rant, being a narrative of the most unparallelled prophane actings, counterfeit repeatings and evil speakings of Thomas Webbe, late pretended minister of Langley Burrial:" this pamphlet, of which some copies are still in existence, contains an astounding revelation of profanity and licentiousness: for his scandalous life Webb was ejected in 1651 and committed to prison: escaping conviction he brought false charges against the magistrate who committed him, which led to the publication of Mr. Stokes' book: in the novel of "Woodstock," Scott has pourtrayed just such a character as Webb, in Tomkins, the preaching soldier and Fifth Monarchy man. St. Paul's ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1855 from that part of Langley Burrell which is contiguous to Chippenham, together with portions of Chippenham parish lying north of the Great Western railway, and parts of Hardenhuish and Kington St. Michael parishes. The church, consecrated in 1854, is an edifice of stone, in the Gothic style of the 14th century, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of six bays, aisles and a western tower with spire 176 feet high, containing a clock with chimes and 8 bells: there are 800 sittings. The register dates from the year 1855. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £50, gross yearly value £200, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, and held since 1855 by the Rev. Augustus Strong M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. Miss Ashe is lady of the manor and the principal landowner. In a field on Peckingell farm was discovered some time since a peculiar oolitic limestone, with characteristic fossils. The appearance of a bituminous shale in the Oxford clay above this rock led to several unsuccessful attempts to find coal in this formation. The soil is clayey and sandy loam, and the land is chiefly in pasture. The area is 1,833 acres; rateable value, £12,327; the population in 1881 was 1,129, of whom 802 are contained in the parish of St. Paul, Chippenham.

It is about 2 miles south of West Lavington, and at a spot about 400 yards from where roads crossed, known as "St. John a'Gores," formerly stood a chantry chapel, dedicated to St. John, to which, in 13.. one Robert de Heghtredbury was instituted priest, and in 1359 it is mentioned in a deed of composition between the vicar of Market Lavington and the Monastery of Edingd. No traces of it now exist.

LITTLETON PANNELL, half a mile north-west, is a tithing with a population in 1881 of 457. The Right Hon. Pleydell-Bouverie M.A., P.C., J.P. of Manor House, Market Lavington, is the principal landowner.

MALMESBURY,

WITH WESTPORT ST. MARY.

MESBURY is an ancient municipal borough and parish terminus of the Malmesbury branch of the Great tern railway, union and market town, head of a county t district and petty sessional division, giving name to hundred, and is a polling place for the North Western sion of the county, in the rural deanery of Malmesbury, ideaconry of Bristol and diocese of Gloucester and Bristol, niles north from Chippenham, 11 south-west from Ciren-er, 5 south-east from Tetbury and 92 from London, santly situated on a bold eminence, and nearly surroun-by the converging branches of the Lower Avon, over ch there are six bridges: the town consists of one princi-street, High street, crossed at the top by Oxford street Gloucester street, leading to Westport St. Mary.

he borough was incorporated by King Athelstan, and formerly governed by a high steward, an alderman and apital burgesses, but under the provisions of the Muni-l Corporations Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 18), it received harter of Incorporation, July, 1885, and is now governed mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors, who also act as Urban Sanitary Authority: it sent one member to Par-ent, but was disfranchised by the "Redistribution of s Act, 1885." The town is lighted with gas, from a manufactory erected by a company, and supplied with er by the Malmesbury Water Works Co. Limited.

he town seems to have been a Roman settlement, was e burnt by the Danes, and was the theatre of war during rebellion in the time of Charles I.: south-west of the n is Malmesbury Common, or King's Heath, containing 500 acres, which was inclosed under the powers of an of Parliament passed in 1821, according to the pro-ns of which every freeman in the borough is entitled to ess one allotment, and every capital burgess a plot of n 8 to 15 acres; the highest part of the common is called le Hill.

he borough comprises three parishes, the Abbey district, Paul's and St. Mary Westport.

he abbey, the remains of which form a splendid monastic was founded in the 7th century for Benedictine ks; the original founder was Maildulph, an Irish monk, came over here and fixed his residence at Malmesbury, afterwards built a small monastery, wherein he resided his disciples, the most eminent of whom was Aldhelm, who, after his master's death, being assisted by the Bishop of Winchester, converted their little cell into an abbey, of which he became the first abbot: the greatest benefactor to the house was King Athelstan: his monument stands at the east end of the present remains: the abbot was made a mitred parliamentary baron by Edward III.; the revenue at the Dissolution amounted to £803 17s. 7d.; the only part now remaining is a portion of the nave of the conventual church, which at the Dissolution was purchased by a clothier of the town named Stumpe, and under the authority of a licence from Archbishop Cranmer, was substituted for the old church of St. Paul, which had become dilapidated, and it has since been used as the parish church: it consists of a chancel, lofty nave, lighted by clerestory windows, aisles, separated by circular piers and lofty Pointed arches: the windows are in the Decorated style: the roof is beautifully groined and arched: over the communion table is a painting of Christ raising Lazarus, the gift of the Earl of Suffolk, and at the west end is a handsome organ: the south porch contains some very elaborate sculpture, including figures of the Twelve Apostles: the church was repaired in 1823: there are sittings for 1,100 persons: south of the abbey in the churchyard (detached) is a tower with spire, containing a clock and 5 bells. The register, which is in good preservation, dates from 1590. The living is a vicarage, with the vicarage of St. Mary Westport annexed, joint net yearly value £500, in the gift of the trustees of the late Rev. Charles Kemble and the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1874 by the Rev. George Windsor Tucker M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford, and surrogate.

The church of St. Mary Westport is a building of stone in mixed styles, and consists of a chancel, nave, south porch, aisles and western turret with one bell: the nave is divided from the aisles by six arches: the south aisle is entirely occupied by free sittings: there are 230 sittings. The register dates from the year 1678.

Here is a Catholic chapel, dedicated to St. Aldhelm, which has 120 sittings.

The Congregational chapel at Westport St. Mary is an elegant structure, having been rebuilt at a cost of £2,000, which was defrayed by contributions: it combines under one roof a chapel, with sittings for 500 persons, school class room and vestry, sufficient to hold 400 pupils.

Silver Street Congregational Chapel was reopened in 1885 after restoration: the outlay was over £300: it has 350 sittings.

The Calvinistic Baptist chapel, Abbey row, was erected in 1802, and has 170 seats. The Primitive Methodist chapel, Bristol street, was erected in 1856, and seats 130 persons. Wesleyan Methodist, Oxford street, with Sunday school attached, erected in 1886, and seats 400 persons.

A Cemetery of 2½ acres, situated at Westport, was formed in 1884 at a cost of £2,000, with a mortuary chapel, and has a house for keeper: it is under the control of a Burial Board of 12 members.

Malmesbury Charities given by order of the Corporation of Malmesbury, June 22nd, 1629: £20 5s. yearly issuing out of the lands of the burgesses, £10 yearly for the support of a free school, and £10 for maintaining poor widows in an almshouse. By will Robert Arch left in 1634 two houses, gardens and 11 acres of land at Lea and Malmesbury, rents of which to be applied for the good of the borough. Henry Grayle, of Malmesbury, left by deed of trust £10 yearly issuing from estate at Somerford Magna, for apprenticing poor children of Malmesbury. Michael Weeks left in 1695 a farm house and 48 acres of land at Somerford, £10 for support of burgesses' school, £10 for support of almshouses, £1 to vicar for preaching annual sermon. Elizabeth Hodges, of Shipton Moyne, left in 1723 £30 yearly from estates at Leonard Stanley, Cam, Stinchcombe and Berkeley, Gloucester; the Court of Chancery, in 1730, ordered that a new school should be established wherein 15 boys (children of the poor of Malmesbury) should be educated, that no boy should be admitted under five years of age and continue till the age of fourteen, and £10 for the benefit of poor housekeepers in Malmesbury not receiving alms. Joseph Cullurne left in 1764 £20 yearly from estate at Cleverton, £10 a year to poor at Malmesbury, £5 yearly to poor of Westport, £1 yearly to poor of Burton Hill, to be distributed the 1st of January in sums not exceeding 5s. to each family, £1 for an annual sermon at the abbey on the 12th of March, £1 for dinner for trustees on same day, 10s. to distributor of this benefaction and £1 10s. to Sarah Hughes; this last-named sum is now divided between the above three parishes. Ann Rowles, Malmesbury, left in 1774 £100 £3 per Cent. Consols, two-thirds of the interest to be paid yearly to the churchwardens of Malmesbury to be given by them to the poor on Good Friday, and one-third to the churchwardens of Westport, to be divided in like manner. Edmund Wayte, of Malmesbury, left in 1661 £4 yearly, issuing out of Canopps mill, Malmesbury, £2 to the poor of Malmesbury, £1 to the poor of Burton Hill, £1 to the poor of Westport, to be distributed annually. William Arnold, of Bristol, left by will, 1778, £400 to purchase stock in Government funds; accordingly in 1785 £576 12s. 10d. capital stock of Reduced £3 per Cent. Annuities were purchased, the interest thereof to be distributed in bread to the poor of Malmesbury at the discretion of the trustees.

There is a Town Hall, a plain square building: also a Market place; the markets are held on the third Wednesday every month for cattle: a small market for provisions held on Saturday.

In the old Market place is an octagonal stone market cross, built in the reign of Henry VII. with flying buttresses and pinnacles, surmounted by a richly sculptured turret which is octagonal with a niche on each side filled with figures in bas relief, one of which represents the Crucifixion: it was restored in 1883 at an expense of £140, raised by subscriptions, of which £100 was given by the lord of the manor.

There are two breweries and a silk manufactory, a water company and a gas company. Pillow lace is made here, but not so extensively as formerly. There are two good hotels the "King's Arms" and the "George."

The D troop of the Royal Wiltshire Yeomanry Cavalry and the A Company of the 2nd Volunteer Battalion, Duke of Edinburgh's (Wiltshire Regiment) have their head quarters in the town.

The Reading Room and Free Library is supported by subscriptions, with 150 members, also a night school is held there in the winter months, attended by about 60 scholars; the library contains 700 volumes.

The historian, William of Malmesbury, was precentor of the abbey church. The celebrated philosopher, Thomas Hobbes, was a native of Malmesbury, and the house in which he is supposed to have resided is still standing, near the Westport church: he was born in 1588, and died at Hardwick Hall, Derbyshire, at the age of 91: there is a tomb in Ault Hucknall church, Derbyshire, to his memory.

The town gives the title of Earl to the Harris family.

Cole Park is the seat of Viscount Trafalgar D.L., J.P. standing in a park of 47 acres.

Lady Northwick is lady of the manor of Malmesbury and Westport. The principal landowners are the Earl of Suffolk and Berkshire, the Earl of Radnor, Sir R. H. Pollen bart. Audlay Lovell esq. and Daniel Beak esq.

MANNINGFORD BRUCE (which derives its name from the old baronial family of Brãose) is a small village and parish, situated on the river Avon, 10 miles east-by-south from Devizes, and 2½ south-west from Pewsey, in the Eastern division of the county, Swanborough hundred, Everleigh and Pewsey petty sessional division, Pewsey union, Marlborough county court district, rural deanery of Marlborough Pewsey portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. Peter was probably built before the Norman conquest (the lofty and narrow doorways and high position of windows indicating Anglo-Saxon, or at least, very Early Norman work), and consists of apsidal chancel containing a handsome reredos, nave, western wooden belfry with 2 bells and north porch: the building formerly was covered with plaster, but in 1882 the plaster was stripped off and the church thoroughly restored, from plans by Mr. J. L. Pearson R.A. at the expense of the lord of the manor: the north porch was rebuilt, two handsome stained windows were placed in the church, and the church was reseated with new oak seats, which are unappropriated: the chancel walls have been decorated: there is a tablet in the chancel to Mary Nicholas, who was, with her sister Jane, instrumental in preserving the life of Charles II. af his defeat at Worcester: there are 110 sittings. The ister dates from the year 1657. The living is a rectory, arly value, tithe rent-charge £291 10s. with 4¾ acres of gl e and house, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1880 the Rev. ARLBOROUGH is a municipal borough and union and market wn, in the Eastern division of the county, petty sessional vision of Marlborough and Hungerford, hundred of Selkley, ıral deanery of Marlborough, archdeaconry of Wilts and ocese of Salisbury, situate on the banks of the river Ken-et; by a branch line from Savernake the town is placed in nnection with the Great Western railway system, and the ation is situated about half a mile from the Town Hall; ıe Midland and South Western Junction railway from Ciren-ster to Andover Junction on London and South Western ilway through Marlborough was opened in 1884, and the heme includes a continuation from Cirencester, to join the idland system at Cheltenham: the town is situated on the ath road, 14 miles north-east from Devizes, 11 south from windon, 27 north from Salisbury and 75 from London. he municipal borough includes the parishes of St. Peter ıd St. Paul, and St. Mary the Virgin, and has a commission the peace. The borough formerly returned two members Parliament, but by the "Representation of the People ct, 1867," the number was reduced to one, and by the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," it was disfranchised. ıe Local Government Act, formally adopted in 1859, was ıt into practical operation in 1866. There is a common of o acres, on which the burgesses are entitled to pasture eir cows, at a charge of 6d. a head per week. The town, ıich is lighted with gas by a company, under a private Act, nsists principally of one fine wide street, chiefly shops; ose on the north side are protected by a colonnade extend-g over the footpath, which renders it a dry and agreeable omenade. The houses are for the most part large and well ilt, though not uniform. The County Quarter Sessions e held here annually at Michaelmas.

The church of St. Mary the Virgin, founded in 1160, is an l stone building, in the Perpendicular style, with Norman st door: it has chancel, nave and square embattled western wer, with pinnacles, containing a clock and 6 bells: the ancel was built in 1874, at a cost of about £1,000: the late E. Street esq. R.A. was the architect: there is a fine organ, cted in 1879, in a chamber north of the chancel; it con-ts of two complete rows of keys (CC to G, 56 notes) and lependent pedals (CCC to F, 30 notes); every stop runs rough the complete compass; there are 8 stops to the swell gan, 7 stops to the great organ, 3 couplers, and 5 compo-ion pedals for the great and swell organs: the church con-ns stained windows to the Merriman family, to Mr. Meyler, ormer head master of the Grammar school, to members of e May family, and to a son of Captain Manders, who was owned at Erith when serving on board the training ship Worcester:" a clock has during the past year (1889) been cted, at a cost of about £200, in the church tower, with two ıminated dials; the frame of the clock is horizontal, and e whole of the wheels are of gun-metal; the pinions are ıtern of hardened and tempered steel; the arbors of it, best el; the escapement is Lord Grimthorpe's, and by it the ndulum receives impulse from two gravity arms, acting ernately on each side so that the vibration and the rate of e pendulum are always uniform whatever amount of weight ıy drive them; this escapement renders the pendulum in-pendent of all force and friction in the clock or the effect wind on the hands; the pendulum beats 1¼ seconds, and bob is cylindrical and weighs 2 cwt.; the dials are 7 feet diameter, filled with opal glass. The church has sittings 600 persons. The register dates from the year 1602. e living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £207, with idence, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held ce 1887 by the Rev. William Gardiner B.D. of Exeter llege, Oxford.

The church of St. Peter is a Perpendicular structure of ne and flint: it has chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, h embattled western tower containing 8 bells and clock, l a south porch, and was repaired in 1863, when the ex-ior was partially restored and the interior completely re-ed with oak, carved railings round the communion table, ew pulpit, stalls and pews, all being of oak, also an oak een round the baptistery, which is situated on the south side of the church: on the north side of the chancel is a marble monument, bearing date 1607, with an inscription to Sir Nicholas Hyde knt. Mary his wife, two sons and a daughter; the baptistery contains a font, supported by four Devonshire marble columns; on the sides of the font are four figures carved in alabaster, emblems of the Four Evangelists: at the east end of the church are three richly stained windows; over the west entrance is one representing the Four Evangelists, with the Apostle Peter in the midst, and four windows have been inserted in the south aisle, representing four ministries—that of Our Lord, angels, apostles and women: there are sittings for 350 persons. The register dates from the year 1611. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £253, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held since 1888 by the Rev. Henry Robert Whytehead M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, and surrogate.

The Wesleyan chapel, Oxford street, was erected in 1867, and seats 200 persons; the Baptist chapel, St. Martin's, erected in 1868, has 90 seats; and the Primitive Methodist chapel, Herd street, erected in 1841, has 200 sittings.

The Market House is an ancient building, over which is the Town Hall. Here are a Council-room and Court-house, and assembly-rooms, which will hold 500 persons. The market for corn, cheese and cattle is held on Saturday, and is tolerably well attended.

Fairs are held on the 22nd of August and 23rd of November. There are two hiring fairs, one on the Saturday before Old Michaelmas and one after.

The trades carried on are brewing, malting, rope and sacking manufacture and tanning.

The charities for distribution amount to about £60 yearly, derived from legacies, all now being in the hands of the Charity Commissioners.

The Savernake Hospital, established in 1866, in the old Training School on Forest Hill, was built by public subscription, at a cost of £5,000, and opened 6th of July, 1872, for 21 patients; beds in constant use, over 17; it is supported entirely by voluntary contributions, and any poor person can be admitted free of charge on the recommendation of a subscriber: out-patients are charged 2s. 6d. per week; patients are received from 60 surrounding parishes, representing a population of upwards of 40,000; the yearly average of in-patients is about 220, and of out-patients about 50. There were under care in 1888 250 in-patients and 60 out-patients. The site was given by the late Marquess of Ailesbury, the Marchioness of Ailesbury built the two convalescent day rooms, and Mrs. Merriman, of Wykeham House, the two extra wards, the latter as a memorial to her late husband, T. B. Merriman esq. The Rev. J. E. Gordon Bond, vicar of Savernake, is the honorary secretary.

There are cricket, athletic and football clubs connected with the town, of which Mr. H. Leaf is the honorary secretary.

The Marlborough Reading and Mutual Improvement Society, which was established in 1844, is well conducted and in a prosperous condition: a comfortable reading-room, situated in the High street, was opened in 1854, and is well supplied with London daily and weekly papers, provincial papers, books of reference, and all the principal periodicals of the day: there is likewise an extensive library attached, consisting of upwards of 3,000 well-selected volumes for the use of the members.

The principal landowners are the Marquess of Ailesbury and the Corporation of Marlborough. The soil is chalk, with beds of clay irregularly distributed. The chief crops are wheat and barley.

MELKSHAM.

MELKSHAM is a market and union and county court town, and head of petty sessional division, and parish, with a station on the Wilts, Somerset and Weymouth branch of the Great Western railway, 100 miles from London, 30 north-west from Salisbury, 6 north-east from Bradford, 5 north-east from Trowbridge, 7 west from Devizes, 9½ from Westbury, 14 from Warminster, 12 east from Bath, 7 south from Chippenham and 5 south-south-east from Corsham, in the Western division of the county, hundred of the same name, rural deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury.

During the West Saxon era this was a place of considerable note; at the period of the Norman survey, and for several subsequent reigns it was held in Royal demesne, and gave name to an extensive forest. The town is situated on the main road from London through Devizes to Bath: it consists principally of one street nearly a mile in length, is well paved, and lighted with gas by a company, and is well supplied with water by the Trowbridge Water Company: the houses are well built, of soft freestone, but irregularly placed: the town is governed by a local board of twelve members. The river Avon divides the town and is crossed by a handsome bridge of four arches, with light and elegant balustrades. The Wilts and Berks canal passes on the east of the town, and about 1½ miles southward joins the Kennet and Avon canal.

There are two mineral springs, one saline and the other chalybeate, in the vicinity; and in 1816 a new saline spa was obtained by boring to a depth of 351½ feet; it was anticipated that Melksham would advance into note in consequence of the medicinal qualities these waters possessed, and every accommodation for visitors was provided, including a pump-room, hot and cold baths, a handsome crescent and an agreeable promenade; but after a very great outlay, the wells did not prove attractive and are now little used.

The church of St. Michael is a spacious structure of freestone, chiefly of Perpendicular work, dates from the Norman period, consisting of a Norman chancel, nave of five bays, and aisles, north porch, with an embattled tower surmounted by pinnacles and containing 6 bells: it was restored and enlarged in 1840, when the central tower was removed and the present tower built at the west end; and again restored in 1881, when an organ was added: the sittings, in number 600, are all free. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge commuted at £920, and 3 acres of glebe, with residence, in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury, and held since 1876 by the Rev. Francis Warre M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford, canon of Salisbury and surrogate.

There is a handsome chapel (St. Andrew's) situated about 1 mile from the town, built in the Early English style, at the sole expense of the late Rev. E. L. Barnwell, of Melksham House, for the use of the district of Sandridge and Melksham Forest: it consists of chancel, nave and [illegible] porch, and western bell turret containing one bell: [illegible] are 200 sittings: adjoining the chapel there is a building comprising a Sunday school-room, and house for the [illegible] the sexton, built in the year 1880, from plans given by the late G. E. Street esq. R.A. holding 150 children.

The Society of Friends' meeting house, King street, [illegible] in 1734, has 300 seats.

The Baptist chapel, Broughton road, founded in 166[illegible] has 400 sittings. Ebenezer Baptist chapel, Union street, [illegible] in 1835, will seat 150 persons. The Baptist chapel, Forest, erected in 1839, has seats for 110 persons.

The Congregational chapel, Market place, found[illegible] in 1773, has 400 sittings.

The Primitive Methodist chapel, Forest, will sea[illegible]50 persons.

The Wesleyan chapel, Market place, erected in 187[illegible] has 450 seats.

The Town Hall and Cheese Market were erected in 847 by a company of shareholders at an expense of £[illegible]50; they form a spacious and well-arranged edifice of whi[illegible] re-stone, in the Italian style. The New Hall, Market [illegible]ace, built by Miss Fowler, is a building of Bath stone, [illegible]d is used for lectures and meetings; it will hold 200 p[illegible]ons. The market is held on every alternate Tuesday in the [illegible]nt[illegible] for cattle, sheep and pigs. A fair for cattle, shee[illegible] and horses is held in the Market place on the 27th of July

The manufacture of flat and round rope, haircloths [illegible]oc[illegible] fibre and sacking are carried on here. There is a[illegible] a[illegible] india rubber factory carried on by the Avon India [illegible]ber Co.

A Cottage Hospital was established here in 1868, c[illegible]ain[illegible] ing 6 beds; there were 24 in-patients in 1888.

Bruges' charity of about £20 yearly, half of which [illegible]es [illegible] Seend, is distributed in blankets by the vicar and [illegible]urch wardens at Christmas. There are also two small ch[illegible]ties left by the Rev. Bohun Fox and Mr. Pritchard respe[illegible]ve[illegible] for the benefit of the poor, at the discretion of the vic[illegible]

The principal landowners are Walter Hume Lo[illegible] es[illegible] M.P. of Rood Ashton House, who is lord of the mano[illegible] Lo[illegible] Methuen, Ralph Ludlow Lopes esq. J.P., D.L. of Sa[illegible]id[illegible] Park, and Mrs. Ludlow Bruges, of Seend.

The area of the civil parish is 8,303 acres; rateable [illegible]alu[illegible] £24,961; the population in the town in 1881 was 2,1[illegible], an[illegible] of the parish, 4,412.

BEANACRE is a tithing 1 mile north-west. He[illegible] is [illegible] Baptist chapel, erected in 1839. BLACKMORE, 1 mile [illegible]out[illegible] east, is also a tithing. A mission chapel was ere[illegible]d [illegible] 1887, capable of holding 100 persons. A school-r[illegible]m [illegible] joining is now (1889) in course of erection.

MERE is a union town and parish situated on the borders of three counties—Wilts, Dorset and Somerset—which meet in the vicinity, and is on the road from Salisbury to Taunton Dean, 23 miles west-by-north from Salisbury, 102 from London, 7 west from Hindon, 7 east-by-north from Wincanton, 4 north from Gillingham station on the Salisbury and Yeovil branch of the South Western railway, in the Southern division of the county, Mere hundred, Hindon petty sessional division, county court district of Shaftesbury, Wylye rural deanery Heytesbury portion, Salisbury archdeaconry and diocese. The town is lighted with gas from works erected in 1866. The church of St. Michael the Archangel is a stone building, consisting of chancel with chapel, nave of five bays, aisles and north and south porches, over each of which is a parvise, and western tower with clock and chimes: the chancel is separated from the nave by a beautifully carved oak screen: in a Gothic niche over the north porch is the figure of a saint: the tower is square, very stately, well built and turreted: it is 35 yards high, surmounted at the angles by four lofty pinnacles and contains 6 musical bells: the chantry chapels are the oldest part, which is of the 14th century; one is used as the vestry and the other for daily prayer; in the south chapel is a very ancient brass in memory of John Betteshorne, who died 1398: there are traces of Early English work (about the year 1220) in the buttresses at the east end and in the corbels which formerly came under the eaves, and are to be seen in the south chancel wall: the present chancel and the north and south chapels were built in the 14th century with some portions of the church, but there was apparently a great remodelling of the church when the tower was built about the middle of the 15th century: there are 600 sittings: in 1883 the churchyard was levelled and planted with shrubs and flowers. The registers are in a good state of preservation, and date from 1572, and the churchwardens' books, still preserved, date from 1556. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £330, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Edwin George Wyld B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, surrogate. The mission church of St. Matthew, about 1½ miles south of the town, and on the Shaftesbury road, opened in 1882, is an edifice of stone and brick, and consists of chancel, apse, nave and north porch, with central bell turret containing one bell, and will seat 150 persons: the cost of erection was about £1,000, raised by voluntary subscriptions, the site being the gift of Miss Grove; it is served by the clergy of St. Michael the Archangel. Here is a Congregational chapel, a large Gothic structure, erected at a cost of over £5,000, at the sole expense of Charles Jupe esq. built of local Bath and Ham Hill stone; also a Primitive Methodist chapel and one for the Plymouth Brethren. The Society of Friends have a meeting house here. The Cemetery, situated on the south side of the town, consisting of about two acres, was opened in 1856: during the excavations necessary in its formation an earthen vessel was discovered containing 400 Roman coins of very ancient date: two mortuary chapels have been erected; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. The charities amount to £158 yearly: Gillingham Forest charity, arising from inclosure of land at Gillingham Forest, produces £100 yearly, and is distributed in shares: the allotment charity derived from land in Gillingham parish yields £20 annually, and is distributed to the poor. John Phillips left by his will the sum of £800, the interest of which after paying for the repairs of tomb, and partly for support of Sunday school, is distributed by the churchwardens; there are a few minor charities. The market formerly held on Tuesday has now become extinct, but annual fairs are still held on the 17th of May and the 10 of October. In the Market place was formerly a market house of great antiquity, which being in a dilapidated state it was found necessary to take it down, and on the site H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, as Duke of Cornwall, erected in 18 a clock tower with illuminated dials. Silk throwing is carried on here, employing about 300 hands. The Church Institute, situated in the Market place, was established in the ar 1885, and is under the management of the vicar as president and a committee of six members; in connection therew is a Temperance Hotel, having reading, bagatelle and assembly rooms, together with a library. In 1859 a penny bank was established. To the south of the town there is an ancient Manor House, now used as a farm house, and called Wd lands, in which is an ancient chapel. Mere constitutes part of the Duchy of Cornwall: in the year 1253 permission was given to Richard, Earl of Cornwall, to build a castle on the hill, now known as Castle Hill, and afterwards to fortify it, of which some traces were found during excavations in 87. The principal landowners are H.R.H. the Prince of Wes, who is lord of the manor, Miss Grove, the trustees of the late Meyrick Bankes esq. and Sir Henry A. Hoare rt. The soil is various, clay, chalk and flint; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, beans and oats the north; and on the south of the town (which is princ lly clay) fine grazing land. The Ashfield water rises fr a chalk hill in the neighbourhood, and after turning seral mills joins the river Stour. The parish contains 7,310 a s; rateable value, £11,332; The population in 1881 was 271, exclusive of the tithings, and in the whole parish, 2,93

Sexton, Arthur Norris.

CHADDENWICKE is a tithing, 1½ miles north-east; WOODLANDS, a tithing, 1 mile south; Bush Hayes, 1½ south-st; Manor House, Barrow Street, 1 south-east, and Bron, half a mile east, are adjacent places.

The church of St Martin is a Gothic stone building, erected in 1846: has chancel, nave with south entrance porch and a west tower surmounted by a fine steeple: the chancel is ved with encaustic tiles: on the north of the chancel is an an-chamber, built in 1874, containing an organ erect in memory of the late William Chafyn Grove: there are re stained windows to his memory, which were erected his tenants: the church is seated with open benches, and wi hold 280 persons. MONCKTON DEVERILL, see DEVERILL.

MONKTON FARLEIGH with FARLEIGH WICK is a parish and village, situated on the Somersetshire border, 2½ miles south from Box station on the Great Western railway, 5½ east from Bath and 4 north-by-west from Bradford, in the western division of the county, in the hundred, petty sessional division union and county court district of Bradford, rural deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. Peter is a stone building in the Norman and Early English styles, and consists of a chancel and nave, north porch and ancient western tower containing 3 bells: the west window is stained in memory of the late rector, Mr. Brown, and there is one on the south to his wife, and that on the north to Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, of the Manor House: the pulpit is of the date of Elizabeth; and the tradition in the parish is that Bishop Jewell was accustomed to preach in it during his frequent visits to the manor, at that time the property of the Bishops of Sarum: there are sittings for 150 persons. The register dates from the year 1570. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £196 with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held since 1885 by the Rev. George Herbert Moberly M.A. formerly fellow of Corpus Christi college, Oxford, prebend of Alton Borealis in Salisbury Cathedral. There is a small charity left by Mr. Blinman, for the supply of fuel to the poor at Christmas. There are celebrated free stone quarries on Farleigh Down. Monkton Farleigh derives its prefix from there having been formerly here a priory of Cluniac monks of the Order of St. Benedict, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, and forming a "cell" subordinate to the priory at Lewes: it was founded by Maud, daughter of Edward of Salisbury, and wife of the second Humphrey, Baron de Bohun, about the year 1125, and by her endowed with an estate, called the Buries, at Bishopstrow, near Warminster (in later times the property of the Gifford and Brocke families, and now of Sir J. Dugdale Astley bart.): it was completed and further endowed by her son, the third Humphrey de Bohun, who married Margaret, daughter of the Earl of Hereford: the revenues at the Dissolution were £217 0s. 4d.: the cellars under the Manor House are believed to have been part of the original priory, but the house itself has undergone so many changes that it is difficult to recognise anything thoroughly ecclesiastical. The spring which supplied the convent is sheltered by a little stone building, with pointed stone roof of the Early English period, called "The Monk's Conduit," standing about a quarter of a mile north-west of the Manor House. The Manor House is now the seat of Sir Charles Parry Hobhouse bart. J.P.: Bishop Jewell died in this house in 1571. The principal landowners are Sir Charles Parry Hobhouse bart. J.P. Heywood Spackman esq. and the heirs of Henry Hancock esq. The soil is sand, stone brash and clay; subsoil, clayey. The chief crops are wheat, roots, beans and barley. The area is 1,916 acres; rateable value, £3,281; the population in 1881 was 412.

SALISBURY.

WITH FISHERTON ANGER, EAST HARNHAM AND MILFORD.

THE city of SALISBURY, or New Sarum, is a municipal and parliamentary borough, polling place for the Southern division of the county, the head of a petty sessional division and county court district, in the union of Alderbury, Wilton rural deanery, Salisbury archdeaconry and diocese, 82 miles from London, or 83 by railway through Basingstoke and 95 through Bishopstoke, on the old road to Exeter, from which city it is 93 north-east, 23 south from Devizes, 27 from Marlborough, 14½ from Romsey and 28½ west from Winchester.

The city is built in the valley at the junction of four rivers —the Avon, Wiley, Nadder and Bourne. The Avon formerly sent off small clear streams through most of the streets; but these canals, as they were locally termed, are now filled up and stopped. The extensive sewage and other sanitary improvements of the Board of Health have effectively drained every part of the city; on the south-east side, sewage disposal works were completed in 1885 at a cost of £10,000. Extensive waterworks have been constructed on the north-east of the city, at a cost of about £14,000, under the direction of the Board of Health, for the purpose of insuring a plentiful supply of water, which, according to analysis, is considered of very pure quality, and is raised by an engine from a well to a height of about 100 feet into a covered reservoir at Bishopsdown Hill, distant about a quarter of a mile. The streets intersect each other at right angles, forming a series of quadrangles, called the Chequers, the houses in each quadrangle facing outwards, and the interior laid out in courts and gardens. The Market place, in the centre of the city, is a spacious and handsome square of 2½ acres, surrounded by good shops.

Salisbury was first incorporated by Henry III. but its charter was confirmed and extended by Queen Anne. The municipal borough comprises the following parishes:—St. Edmund (Salisbury), part of St. Martin (Salisbury), St. Thomas (Salisbury), part of Fisherton Anger parish, part of Milford tything, and the liberty of the close of the Canons of the Cathedral. Under the Municipal Act the city is divided into 5 wards, and the council consists of 24 members, who also act as the urban sanitary authority. The city has a commission of the peace and separate court of quarter sessions and its own police. The parliamentary borough comprises in addition another portion of Fisherton Anger parish, added by the Boundary Act, 1868: it returned two members to Parliament, but by the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885, the number was reduced to one, and the area extended by including the remainder of Fisherton Anger parish and a portion of Milford.

The South Western railway from Basingstoke to Exeter passes through Salisbury, and connects it with London, and their line through Romsey gives communication with Southampton and Portsmouth; and there is a line from the city to a junction near Ringwood, on the Southampton and Dorsetshire line, which places it in connection with Christchurch and Bournemouth. The Great Western has a station here on the Salisbury and Westbury branch, connecting the city with the coal fields of Somersetshire and with Bath and Bristol.

North of the city is a desolate mound, arising abruptly from the valley on the west, and its eastern side connected with a ridge of the Downs; its deep fosses and stupendous earthen ramparts, nearly a mile in circumference, mark the site of OLD SARUM, now called Old Castle, or Castle Hill. The name is said to mean, in British, a dry situation. There is reason for believing it to have been a stronghold of the Belgæ, who inhabited the western counties of Hants, Wilts and Somerset; and that it was a station of the Romans is indicated by coins of various emperors found within its a, and by three Roman roads, of which it was the conver ng point, from Winchester, Silchester and Dorchester, th other three, partly traceable to Bath, Ilchester and a st on on the Kennet. Under the West Saxons, it first becar a Christian see. King Stephen placed a garrison here, w ch offended the Churchmen, who, immured upon a steep nd arid hill, had probably already cast many a longing gl ce at the fertile and irrigated meads at its foot. A new c e-dral was projected; the proud fane of Salisbury arose; d, deprived of its splendid ecclesiastical establishment, this ce important and flourishing city gradually decayed and fi lly disappeared; a few fragments of foundations alone re n. The elevation of the inner mound is calculated to be 39 feet; within it stood the citadel, with some streets radi ng from and others encircling it. In the hot summer of 34, the extreme drought caused the ground between the entr h-ments to crack, so as to discover the entire foundations the ancient cathedral, situated, as had been supposed, o he north-west side: a very large and curious double key as found among its ruins.

A tree near Stratford was the place of nominal electio for the borough of Old Sarum, but almost immediately aft he Reform Act of 1832, a violent wind blew down the pri al part of the tree.

Edward III. assembled a parliament at Salisbury, at w ch Mortimer Earl of March and his partisans attended ith their armed followers. The Earls of Kent, Norfolk nd Lancaster, being summoned by Mortimer to attend this ar-liament without an armed force, on discovering Morti r's position, retreated to assemble their retainers and return ith an army; the quarrel, however, was compromised thr gh the intervention of the clergy. In the reign of Richar II. the Duke of Buckingham was beheaded here, and his ad-less remains were discovered beneath the floor of the ki ien of the 'Saracen's Head' inn.

High street lies in a direct line between the old and ew cities, and its continuation is called Castle street, a Old Sarum is denominated Castle Hill. The Bath road tur off from High street by a stone bridge over the Avon thr gh the suburb of FISHERTON ANGER.

The original Cathedral was founded at Old Saru by Bishop Osmund (1072-99), to whom a charter of found ion was granted by William Rufus, April 5th, 1091, and th di-fice was dedicated on the same day in the succeeding ar, but it was translated to New Sarum in 1220.

The diocese was originally seated at Wilton in this co ty. about the 10th century; subsequently transferred t Old Sarum, and ultimately, in 1217, to Salisbury: the cou y of Berks was in 1836 transferred to the Oxford diocese, hile the county of Dorset was taken from Bristol dioces and added to Salisbury, which now comprises the count of Dorset and Wilts, except a small portion, and withi the archdeaconries of Dorset, Sarum and Wilts. Crickla e Malmesbury deaneries were severed from Salisbury an added to Bristol diocese in 1837.

The existing Cathedral of St. Mary, beautifully sit te in a spacious grassy close of half a square mile in e ent, fringed with magnificent trees, is a structure of Chil ark stone, quarried about 15 miles from the city, in the pu est form of Early English, and is the only English cath dral completed in one style, on a well-arranged and un rn plan: fortunate both in its site and seclusion, it pos se advantages equally enjoyed by no other similar edifice th kingdom, and "its beautiful symmetry of outline, it fine dimensions, consummate unity of effect, incomparabl dis-position of parts, its exquisite grace and simplicity th iiformity of its architecture, and its unrivalled spire," ver fail to produce on the beholder an indelible impression : e ground plan is perfect, and consists of a nave of ten bays, th aisles and a north porch, a main transept of four bays each wing, central tower with spire, choir of six bays with sles, choir transept of three bays in each wing and an stern Lady chapel of four bays with aisles : south of the oir transept is an octagonal muniment room, and south of e nave, but detached from it, are the cloisters and chapter use.

The most striking features of the exterior, an uninterpted view of which can be obtained on every side, are the western front with its lateral turrets, the superb spire, e large and deep north porch, with a chamber above it, id the two transepts, one at the crossing and the other at e junction of the choir and presbytery." The western ont or screen, a composition of the highest beauty, consists a central compartment or bay, acutely gabled, and emttled wings, flanked by square turrets, terminating in ort spires with small spirelets at the angles : the central y is lighted by three tall lancets, and below these are three eply-recessed pedimented porches, the middle one forming e chief entrance ; and two similar porches are placed on ther side of the screen, the whole of which, except the incipal bay, is covered with five tiers of varied arcading, lieved by a broad band of quatrefoil work at about half its eight : the lofty north porch is richly arcaded within, and as a crocketed gable set between shafted turrets finished ith spirelets ; the tower, rising in the centre of the main ansept, is of three storeys, the two uppermost being lighted four canopied two-light windows in each face, divided by ttresses and enriched with tracery and niches: at each gle rises an octangular turret, and from the midst of four nnacles springs the octangular spire, adorned with three nds of rich quatrefoiled work : it has canopied dormers to e points of the compass, and its angles, decorated with the ll flower ornament, present a slightly broken outline ainst the sky ; the curious timber framing of its interior at once bold and ingenious, but it was ascertained by Mr. Price, architect, about 1740, to be 24½ inches out of the rpendicular on the south and 16¼ inches on the west : it as braced with iron by Sir Christopher Wren in 1668, and o further settlement has been observed since 1681.

The cathedral was begun in 1220, the foundations having een laid by Bishop Poore on April 28th in that year, and e first service was held Sept. 29th, 1225 : the work was ntinued by Bishops Bingham (1229-47) and William of ork (1247-56), and on the 29th Sept. 1258, after an expendire of 40,000 marks, or about £26,666, the building was nsecrated by Bishop Bridport in the presence of Henry III. d was finally dedicated in 1830. The cloisters and chapter use were finished in 1263-70, by Bishop Walter de la yle : the tower carried up about 1330 by Bishop Wyville : e spire, begun in 1335 by Nicholas de Portland, was cometed in 1375 by Richard de Farleigh, who designed the bbeys of Bath and Reading : Bishop Beauchamp (1450-82) ilt a chapel, destroyed by Wyatt in 1792, on the south de of the Lady chapel, and erected the great hall of the laces : Bishop Audley (1502-24) built the chantry on the rth side of the choir : and in 1476 Lord Hungerford's apel, also demolished by Wyatt, was erected on the north de of the Lady chapel : Bishop Ward (1667-89) renewed e stall and screen, and laid down the marble flooring of e choir ; the work being carried out under the direction of ir Christopher Wren, who also surveyed and braced the ire. In 1741, June 21st, the spire was struck by lightning and set on fire, but did not receive any serious damage. ishop Hume (1766-82) removed Wren's stalls and screen, d replaced them by others. During the prelacy of Bishop hute Barrington (1782-91) the cathedral was repaired and tered, and at the same time scandalously mutilated, by e notorious architect James Wyatt, at a cost of £26,000, nder whose direction the Beauchamp and Hungerford apels were demolished, and their ornamental portions sed up in the reconstruction of the reredos, organ screen d choir stalls ; he also removed two porches, the screens closing the transepts, obliterated with colour wash the rious paintings on the vaulting of the choir and eastern ansept, and displacing many of the monuments, especially the Lady chapel, arranged them in two formal rows down e nave ; simultaneously a detached Early English clochard bell-tower, of three decreasing stages with a spire, which ood north-west of the church and contained 8 bells, was holly destroyed. In 1827 various repairs to the spire were rried out by means of an ingenious wicker contrivance spended from the top : the interior has since been cleared whitewash and colouring, the marble shafting of the piers newed, and the roof paintings referred to above, repreenting the hallowing of human labour by the Son of Man d His glorification, together with scenes from the Apocapse, have been carefully disclosed, and, where necessary, painted : the 13th century choir stalls and the Bishop's throne have also been restored by the clergy and laity of the diocese, in memory of Bishop Hamilton (1854-69). More recently the porch has been restored and an oak lobby erected as a memorial of the late Dean Hamilton, by his widow, the stone screen removed, and a screen of metal-work erected, adorned with filagreework and surmounted by a cross.

The piers of the nave consist of four clustered columns, with as many shafts of Purbeck marble, supporting elegant pointed arches ; the triforium has two couplets of trefoiled arches in each bay, with a quatrefoil in the head ; the clerestory displays triplets of lancets, and the vaulting is plain.

The main transept has two peculiar adjuncts in the beautifully designed arches erected between the arches of the crossing soon after the building of the tower, which had already shown signs of weakness in the north-east transept ; against the western wall of the north-east transept is placed the ancient rood screen ; the north wing retains also an Early Perpendicular lavatory removed from the sacristy, and a double aumbry ; in the south wing is a double aumbry and a piscina combined with parts of ancient doors.

The choir retains some Early English stall work, and a few stalls and misericords of the time of Henry VII. and the Bishop's throne, of rich canopied work disposed in a pyramidal form : the organ, built by Green, in 1792, and presented by George III. has been replaced by a new one, presented, at a cost of £3,500, by Miss Chafyn Grove, of Zeals, and inclosed in an oak case, provided in 1883, at a cost of £1,200. In the south side adjoining the south end of the choir transept, is an octagonal sacristy and muniment room, where is preserved an Early English chest, a paten and chalice, an episcopal ring, a 15th century cope of green and gold, and a wooden pastoral staff of the 13th century.

The Lady chapel, formerly separated from the presbytery by a screen, removed in 1789-90, is uniquely divided into three alleys by slender columns of Purbeck marble ; the former reredos, composed of fragments of the Beauchamp and Hungerford chapels, was destroyed by Wyatt : a new reredos, an exquisite work in the Early English style, has been presented for the high altar of the choir by Earl Beauchamp, in memory of his ancestor Bishop Beauchamp (1450-82). The shrine of St. Osmund stood in the first bay of this chapel, and in the presbytery are two chapels at the sides of the altar, above which was the watching loft.

The cloisters, situated south of the nave, but detached from it, form a beautiful quadrangle, 181 feet square, the most perfect of the kind now remaining, surrounding a fine sward shadowed by cedars ; they are connected with the cathedral at the south-west angle of the main transept, and again by the consistory court at the west end of the nave. On the east side is the fine octagonal chapter house, supported by a central shafted pillar and lighted by eight large traceried windows, below which runs a continuous arcading ; in the spandrils are sculptures of scripture subjects, from the Creation to the Exodus, restored by Philip ; over the entrance is represented in polychrome the Psychomachia of Prudentius ; it was restored in 1856 by Mr. H. Clutton, and the roof painted by Hudson, as a memorial to Bishop Denison.

The library, built by Bishop Jewel, over the eastern alley, contains MSS. of the Venerable Bede of the 9th century, and of Geoffrey of Monmouth and St. Augustine of the 8th and 10th centuries, a Bible of the 13th century, and a Liturgy, with Saxon version ; some of the earlier books were given by Bishop Gheast (1571-8).

The cathedral, owing largely to the destructiveness of Wyatt, who, it is said, "threw it by the cart-load into the city ditch," contains but little ancient stained glass : some portions of Early English glass (1240-80) removed from the chapter house are retained in several of the windows, and the western triplet contains Perpendicular and Cinque-Cento glass from Dijon and Exeter, but there are no complete windows of an earlier date than 1782 ; the east window of the choir, designed by S. H. Mortimer, and presented by Jacob, Earl of Radnor, in 1782, represents "The Raising of the Brazen Serpent ;" the east window of the Lady chapel, designed by Sir Joshua Reynolds, and executed by Eginton, represents the "Resurrection ;" there are memorial windows to Mary, Countess of Radnor, who died 5th April, 1879 ; to the wife of the Rev. Canon Swayne, and to the 62nd (Duke of Edinburgh's) Regiment, and in July, 1884, a memorial window was placed in the south transept to Sir George Alfred Arney, late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Zealand, by his niece, Mrs. Colls, of Monmouth, and his executors, from the design of Mr. A. O. Hemming : a memorial window in the south choir aisle, at a cost of £300, to H.R.H. Duke of Albany K.G. : a triple lancet in the north-east transept to the memory of Mrs. W. K. Hamilton, widow of Bishop Hamilton : a double lancet in east nave aisle to the memory of W. Martin Coates : a single lancet in north transept to the late Mr. Middleton, by his widow.

The monument of Bishop Moberly, designed by Sir Arthur Blomfield, consists of an arched recess, with gabled and traceried panels, 1885. The episcopal effigies include a diminutive one in bas-relief of the 13th century, found in 1680 near the pulpit; it has no inscription, but has been conjectured to represent a "Boy-Bishop" of the choristers, whose office lasted from the festival of St. Nicholas (the patron saint of boys), December 6, until that of the Holy Innocents, December 28, or till Epiphany; another reputed memorial of this kind, bearing a pastoral staff in relief, is preserved in the church of West Wittering, Sussex.

The churchyard, or lawn of the Close, was a place of burial till Bishop Barrington removed to the cloisters all the remains interred here. A broad gravelled and shaded mall, which forms the approach to the great western entrance of the cathedral,and crosses the Close from north to south, is the favourite summer evening promenade. The Close has three gates: that on the south side communicates with Harnham and the contiguous country; that on the north with High street and the body of the city; and that on the east with St. Ann street and the road to Southampton: adjoining the north gate is the Matrons' college, founded by Bishop Ward for ten ladies, widows of clergymen of the diocese. The south quarter of the Close is occupied by the Bishop's palace and gardens, dividing the city from the more ancient village of Harnham.

The Palace is an embattled structure of Early Perpendicular date, with a chapel and tower of that period, and a hall dating from 1460; in the palace is a series of portraits of bishops from Brian Duppa (1641-65) to Thomas Burgess (1825-37).

The undercroft, built by Bishop Poore, has been restored by Bishop Wordsworth 1889.

The Church house for the diocese is a building of two storeys in the Late Perpendicular style of Domestic Gothic, known as Audley House. The structure was originally a monastic establishment, and was granted at the Dissolution to the Touchets, Barons Audley: in 1631 it was forfeited to the Crown,and afterwards granted in perpetuity to the see, and was transferred by one of the bishops to the Corporation, and lately used as a workhouse, and has been restored as a Church house under the direction of Messrs. Crickmay and Sons, architects, of Weymouth: it consists at present of two unequal blocks placed nearly at right angles to each other, and partially inclosing a court-yard: the north front faces Crane street, and on the western side is a garden stretching to the river: the southern portion of the existing structure remains to be dealt with at some future time. The building fund is estimated at from £3,500 to £4,000, and the freehold has been purchased at a cost of £1,600: the library, restored and fitted, at an expense of £500, by Miss Chafyn Grave: a depôt for the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge a for the National Society is also completed: and the inter also includes a large room for meetings of different societi a committee room, general and ladies' waiting rooms, porte lodge &c.

The Salisbury and South Wilts Museum, in St. Ann's street, is open to the public gratis daily, viz.: except Friday and Sunday, during the hours of daylight : it contains local objects of art and antiquity, and geological and other collections ; among the local contents is the Giant and attendant Hob nob or Hobby horse, which were important features in guild processions in this city, and are the only specimens remaining in the country.

The Halle of John Halle, an old banqueting hall, is a fine specimen of late 15th century work ; the present owner has recently put in a new front to the old premises, from the designs of Mr. Fred Bath, strictly harmonizing with the style of the old Hall, which illustrates in wood and stone all the principal events connected with the Halle and life of the original owner.
There are four newspapers published in the city.
Close under the bridge over the Avon, in a pretty but low situation, stands the Hospital of St. Nicholas, said to have been built in 1220, by Countess Ela, wife of the sixth Earl of Salisbury, for six aged men and as many women, with a small chapel attached. There was also erected in 1863, near to Fisherton church, three dwelling-houses (now increased to six), called St. Paul's Home, founded and endowed by the late Francis Attwood esq. of the Close, for widows or daughters of clergymen of the dioceses of Salisbury and Winchester, with annuity to each of £30, provision being made for payment of rates and taxes and for a gardener to keep the grounds: the structure is handsome and well built. The city contains a great number of asylums for the aged and infirm, and charitable institutions for educational purposes, and a school for preparing indigent girls of the respectable classes for superior service; there is in the Close a normal training school for female teachers, under the management of the bishop and clergy of the diocese.
The Victoria Park, distant about half-a-mile from the Market place, is the permanent local memorial of the jubilee of the reign of Queen Victoria ; it was purchased by public subscription at a cost of £1,600 from the Dean and Chapter, who sold the land much below its actual value for this purpose : it consists of 16 acres, and has been laid out, part as gardens and the remainder as cricket field, tennis courts, football ground and a cycling track a quarter of a mile in circumference ; an ornamental band stand, cricket pavilion, shelter and other buildings have been erected ; many thousands of plants, shrubs and trees have been planted, and these with the buildings have wholly been provided by special gifts and by public subscriptions. The whole has been laid out and the principal buildings erected from the designs and under the superintendence of Mr. Fred Bath F.R.I.B.A., F.S.I. of Salisbury, the honorary architect of the trustees, who are publicly elected, the hon. sec. being Mr. George Fullford and the chairman Mr. Fred Griffin, who was Jubilee mayor, and to whose energy, liberality and public spirit much of the success of the park is due.
The Fawcett statue was erected in honour of Henry Fawcett esq. M.P. who was born in 1833 in Queen street (a house nearly opposite to where the statue stands). He was the second son of Alderman William Fawcett, who was mayor in 1832, when he presided over a great dinner of the citizens held in the Market place, to celebrate the passing of the Reform Bill. Henry Fawcett represented first Brighton and afterwards Hackney in Parliament, became Postmaster-General in Mr. Gladstone's second administration, and was for many years professor of Political Economy in the University of Cambridge. He died Nov. 6, 1884, at Cambridge, and was buried at Trumpington, near Cambridge. A me-ing of the citizens of Salisbury was called by the mayor (Mr. George Fullford) in November, 1884, to take steps to erect a memorial of their worthy native, a work in which the mayor of the succeeding year (Mr. W. M. Hammick) assisted, and Mr. Henry Richard Pinker was commissioned to provide a bronze statue on a pedestal of grey Cornish granite, to be erected in the Market place at a cost of about £900, and it was finished and unveiled by the Earl of Pembroke in May, 1887.

STOURTON parish is partly in the county of Somerset and partly in the Southern division of the county of Wilts, 25 miles west from Salisbury, 7 north-east from Wincanton station of the Somerset and Dorset railway, 5½ north-west from Witham Friary station on the Weymouth branch of the Great Western railway (the station generally used is Gillingham on the Salisbury and Yeovil branch of the S.W.R. 6 miles), and 12½ north-west from Shaftesbury, Hindon petty sessional division, hundred and union of Mere, county court district of Shaftesbury, rural deanery of Wylye Heytesbury portion, archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The hamlet of BROOK or GASPAR is the only portion of the parish in Somersetshire. The parish church of St. Peter is an edifice of stone and has a parapet all round it: it presents mixed specimens of architecture and has chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, north porch and western tower with 6 bells, the sixth having been added in 1881: in 1878 the chancel was re-roofed and fitted with oak stalls and tiled, and new east window and reredos provided: the Hoare monuments were at the same time removed to the south aisle and an organ chamber and vestry built: there are many memorials of the Stourton family and several stained windows: the church has about 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1572. The living is a rectory, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £500, with 84 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Sir Henry Ainslie Hoare bart. and held since 1888 by the Rev. Herbert Poole King, of Pembroke College, Oxford. There are several benefactions for the poor of the parish, amounting to about £75 yearly. Here is the Eagle Arms, an excellent family hotel and posting house. The name of the parish is supposed to be derived from the river Stour, which rises within its boundaries. The family of Stourton, which is of high antiquity, once possessed this and the surrounding property: the Stourtons were settled here before the Norman accession, but in the year 1720 [the] estates they had held for so many centuries were purch[ased] by Henry Hoare esq. of London; Sir Henry Ainslie H[oare] bart. D.L., J.P. of Stourhead Park, is the present posse[ssor] of this beautiful and extensive demesne, lord of the m[anor] and principal landowner. In the tithing or manor of [Ba]-ham stands the ancient Catholic chapel: it is a plain bu[ild]-ing of stone and was, in 1882, re-roofed and otherwise re-paired by the owner: it is the property of Lord Mowbray and Stourton. In this neighbourhood, and on the estate of Sir H. A. Hoare, though in the parish of South Brewt[on], Somerset, is KINGSETTLE HILL; on it was erected, about 1766, a triangular tower, 150 feet in height, dedicated to Alfred, the illustrious monarch of the West Saxons; there is a statue in stone of this king, with the following inscription underneath: "Alfred the Great, A.D. 879, on this summit erected his Standard against the Danish invader." The soil is sandy; subsoil, gravel, chalk and flint. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 3[85] acres, including the hamlet of Brook, otherwise Gaspar; rateable value, £3,784; the population in 1881 was 3[10] in Stourton and 233 in Brook or Gaspar.

STRATFORD-SUB-CASTLE is a parish, situated on the river Avon, 2 miles north-west from Salisbury, in the Southern division of the county, Underditch hundred, Alderbury union, Salisbury county court district, petty sessional division of Salisbury and Amesbury, rural deanery of Wilton and archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. Lawrence is a small ancient structure, built of flint and stone, mainly in the Early English style: it has a chancel and nave, divided by a carved oak screen and lofty Pointed arch, north porch, square western embattled tower with pinnacles and containing clock and 2 bells: in the chancel is a mural tablet to Doctor Nisbet, whose widow Admiral Lord Nelson married: there are over 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £100, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Edwin Curwen Collard. Mawarden Court, now the Vicarage, the greater part built in 1673, is an interesting and historical house: Thomas Pitt esq. who brought to Europe the famous Pitt or Regent diamond, lived here: his son Robert and his grandson, the first William Pitt, afterwards Lord Chatham, also probably lived here: the latter represented Old Sarum.

The ancient borough of OLD SARUM, formerly a [city], was a fortress of the native Britons: the town was one of thirty, in this part of the island, occupied by the Belgæ, who were dispossessed by Vespasian. By the Romans it was made a station for troops on the Icknield Street, under the title of Sorbiodunum, in connection with other posts united by military roads. No less than six Roman roads are said to have diverged from Sorbiodunum, or Old Sarum. In the West-Saxon period this city of the west was termed Searo-byrig, and was the occasional residence of King Egbert: under the Normans it was three times the seat of a council, in 1086, 1096 and 1116; and during the reign of William the Conqueror the episcopal see was transferred here from Wilton, and about 1220 removed to Salisbury, or New Sarum: on the centre of the hill the citadel was placed, guarded by a deep fosse on the outside and a bold rampart within: the inclosed area, about 500 feet in diameter, had on its eastern side the principal entrance, with defensive works: a large area surrounded the citadel, which was again environed by a bank and ditch: these inclosed the chief part of the old city, and measure 7 furlongs 26 yards in circumference, containing an area of 27½ acres of ground. The borough of Old Sarum returned two members to Par[liament] nent in the reign of Edward I. and continued to do so till he passing of the Reform Act. Under a tree about a quarter f a mile from the parish church of Stratford, is pointed out he spot where the members of the borough were elected. As nuch as £60,000 or £70,000 is said to have been paid for a mall estate containing the sites of the houses within the orough of Old Sarum: the present appearance of Old arum is a large mound, and in parts prettily wooded, ising from a valley on the west, and connected with a ridge owards the east. It was formerly extra-parochial, but is ow a parish in the Alderbury union; rateable value, £70: it s still extra-parochial as to ecclesiastical matters. The )ean and Chapter of Salisbury are lords of the manor and hief landowners. The soil and subsoil are chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and green crops. The area, including the borough of Old Sarum, is 1,480 acres of land and 21 of water; rateable value, £2,379; the population in 1881 was 318, and of Old Sarum, 21.

SWINDON with SWINDON NEW TOWN.

SWINDON is a parish and large town and first-class station on the Great Western railway, distant, by railway, 77 miles from London, 29¾ from Bath, 6 north-east from Wootton Bassett, 16¾ north-east from Chippenham, 23 north-east from Melksham, 28½ north-east from Trowbridge, 38½ north-east from Frome, 37 north-east from Warminster, 32½ north-east from Westbury, 27 north-east from Bradford, 21 north-east from Devizes and 45 north from Salisbury; it is the head of a county court district and petty sessional division, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Kingsbridge and Highworth and Swindon union, rural deanery of Cricklade, archdeaconry of Bristol and diocese of Gloucester and Bristol, standing on a considerable elevation, commanding a fine view over rich valleys watered by the rivers Cole and Ray, with their numerous branches. The town is not incorporated, but the Local Government Act has been adopted for the Old and New Town; each board consists of 12 members. The town is lighted with gas by a company, whose works are in Cricklade street, and supplied with water from works situated at Wroughton Park.

The parish church (Christ Church) was erected in 1851, from designs by the late Sir G. G. Scott R.A. at an expense of £8,000, raised by voluntary subscriptions: the style is the Decorated Early English: it has chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, transepts, western tower and spire and a peal of 8 bells and clock: the site was given by Ambrose Goddard esq.: in 1883 the chancel was much improved at a cost of about £500: a new oak screen was added to the western porch in 1889: there are sittings for 900: the chancel of the old church is still standing, and contains several monuments, but is disused: it was restored in 1885. The register dates from the year 1640. The living is a vicarage, of the gross yearly value of about £342, including 20 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Newton Ebenezer Howe, of Magdalene College, Cambridge.

The vicarage house, erected in place of the old one in the vicinity of the old chancel, was erected in 1887, on The Sands, Bath road: the building and site cost over £3,000; the architect was W. H. Read esq. M.S.A. of Swindon.

The Wesleyan chapel, Bath road, built in 1880, has 700 sittings; the Congregational chapel, Victoria street, built in 1866, seats 600; the Particular Baptist chapel, Providence road, built in 1843, will seat 400; the Primitive Methodist chapel, Prospect place, in 1870, 300; Brethren Meeting Room, Prospect place, built in 1869, 250; and the Salvation Army have barracks in Market square, built in 1862.

The charities amount to £110 yearly from land and Consols, left by Mrs. Evans, Messrs. Sheppard and Rolleston, Anderson, Gray, Bowly and others at various times.

The markets are held on Mondays for pitched corn, and every second and last Monday for fat cattle. Swindon sales of cattle, sheep and horses are held every Monday in the New Cattle Market by Mr. J. A. Y. Matthews, Mr. T. Lavington, and Messrs. Bishop and Day. There are four fairs in the year, two under a charter granted to the lord of the manor in the reign of Charles I.—viz. on the second Monday after May, the 11th and the second Monday in December; also two statute fairs for hiring servants—viz. on the first Monday before April the 5th and on the second Monday after September the 11th. Besides the ordinary cattle market the commodious sale yard of Messrs. Dore, Radway and Titmas, originally established by the late Mr. William Dore, provides for sales of live stock and is attended by dealers from all parts of the country. The periodical auctions for horses, established by Mr. T. Hooper Deacon are held in his extensive premises opposite the Market square, on alternate Mondays. New Cattle Market, situate in Marlborough road, Swindon, holds 360 cattle, 730 sheep, 300 pigs, besides horses; opened in 1887; George Wiltshire, builder, and W. H. Read esq. M.S.A. architect, both of Swindon.

The Corn Exchange, situate in the Market square, is a commodious building 110 feet by 50 feet, seating 1,100 persons, is licensed for theatrical performances, and has a clock tower 80 feet high: the clock strikes the hours on a 2-cwt. bell, and the quarters on 2 smaller bells and shows the time on two 4-feet illuminated dials.

The Town Hall, built 1852, is 50 feet by 26 feet, and is also occasionally used for meetings and balls: it will hold 600 persons. The whole of the buildings belong to the Swindon Central Market Company Limited, who hold a lease of the land from the lord of the manor.

The K and M Companies of the 2nd Volunteer Battalion, Duke of Edinburgh's Wiltshire Regiment have their head quarters at the Corn Exchange.

The Swindon Victoria Hospital, situate in The Sands, was opened in 1888; there are two principal wards, for males and females respectively, with a special ward for accident cases, containing 12 beds: the foundation stone was laid by Mrs. Goddard, wife of the lord of the manor, on Jubilee Day, 1887: the hospital is established on an entirely free basis, the medical staff being composed of all the medical gentlemen of the town: the cost of the building and furnishing was £1,960, raised by contributions: the site, containing one square acre of land, was given by A. L. Goddard esq. D.L., J.P. the lord of the manor; the builder was Wm Chambers, of Swindon, and the architect, W. H. Read esq. M.S.A. Swindon.

There are two newspapers published weekly, the "North Wilts Herald" and the "Swindon Advertiser," besides a daily (evening) issue of the "North Wilts Herald."

Quarries of oolite, well adapted for building, are abundant in the neighbourhood: quantities of fossil and other remains have been found, which are highly interesting to geologists. Professor Smith, one of the earliest geologists of this country, spent much time in inspecting these quarries. In 1874 a fossil of an extinct reptile known to geologists as of the order Omosaurus was found. Fresh water marls and limestones of the Pinbeck age are found in the quarries here with bones of the earliest true frog and fossils of fresh water shells. Within a mile and a half of the town, on the Liddington road, is a beautiful lake of 80 acres, the reservoir for supplying the Wilts and Berks canal, which passes through the parish within half a mile of the town: it is delightfully situated in a picturesque district, beautifully wooded. The railway, quarries and general agricultural pursuits furnish employment for the working population.

The principal residence is the Lawn, a large and handsome house in the Italian style, the seat of Ambrose Lethbridge Goddard esq. D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner.

The hill on which the Old Town stands is of sand and stone, surrounded by Kimmeridge clay, mostly covered by a rich alluvial soil. The adjoining farms are mostly pasture. The area is 3,136 acres; rateable value, £97,855; the population in 1851 (including Swindon New Town) was 4,876; in 1861, 6,856, in 1871, 11,720, and in 1881, 19,901, and is now (1889) about 30,000; the great increase in the population is principally caused by the number of men employed at the station and works of the Great Western Railway Company; the population of the Local Board district of Old Swindon in 1881 was 4,696.

BROOME and WALCOTT are tithings in this parish.

Parish Clerk, William Dean.

Swindon New Town (or NEW SWINDON) was formerly a marsh, but since the construction of the Great Western railway has become a considerable town, and is united to Old Swindon, and now forms with it practically one town, in the hundred of Cricklade and county court district of Swindon. Here is a junction station of the Great Western railway: every train stops here, as well for changing engines as for refreshment of passengers: at this station the line from Gloucester, Hereford and South Wales joins the main line; and the Midland and South Western Junction Railway Company has constructed a railway from here to Andover junction, through Marlborough and Ludgershall, which gives direct communication between Manchester and the North and Southampton. The first section of line from Swindon to Marlborough was opened 29th July, 1881; second section Marlborough to Andover, May 1st, 1882; and the northern portion of the line as far as Cirencester, December 18th, 1883; this line is now completed, and joins the Banbury and Cheltenham railway at Andoversford Junction, the through communication is therefore complete. New Swindon is also the centre of the Great Western Railway works, and the factory for the whole of the line with its numerous ramifications. The locomotive and carriage works are on an extensive scale, and cover an area of about 200 acres, and together with the iron foundry and boiler works employ about 9,000 hands.

The Great Western Railway Medical Fund Society's Accident Hospital, situated in Faringdon street, was established in 1871 and contains 12 beds.

The town is regularly built, partly on the land belonging to the company, and chiefly occupied by the persons employed in the works; there are a number of handsome shops and the town is improving and increasing very fast; it is lighted with gas and governed by a Local Board of Health of twelve members. The Wiltshire and Berkshire canal pass in the immediate vicinity, and over which a girder bridge, leading from Wellington street to College street, was in 1885 constructed at a cost of about £900.

St. Mark's, New Swindon, was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1846. The church is a handsome stone structure in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch with western tower and spire containing one bell: the church was designed by the late Sir Gilbert Scott R.A. and will seat 900 persons. There is an organ, also suitable oak choir seats and chancel screen designed by Temple Moore esq.: in 1888 two stained windows were placed in the church. The register dates from the year 1845. The living is a vicarage of the gross yearly value of £283, including one acre of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, and held since 1879 by the Rev. the Hon. Maurice John George Ponsonby M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford.

A church in connection with St. Mark's is now (1889) in course of erection in Ashford road, and when finished will consist of chancel, nave, two vestries, western porch and turret containing one bell: the length of the chancel will be 18 ft. and the nave 60 ft.: the foundation is of brick, and the structure is to be of wood; inside will be pitch pine neatly varnished: the circumstances of the erection of this building are almost unique, the labour being entirely voluntary and supplied by workmen belonging to the Great Western Railway Company, and is intended chiefly for their use. Only one previous instance of the kind is known in England.

St. Paul's, New Swindon, was (in 1881) formed into an ecclesiastical parish from New Swindon parish. The church, built in 1881 at a cost of nearly £6,000, is an edifice of brick, in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, with clerestory, organ chamber and vestries, western, north and south porches, and western bell cote containing one bell: there is a very handsome chancel screen of open woodwork: there are 735 sittings, all free and unappropriated. The register dates from the year 1881. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £240, in the gift of the bishop of the diocese, and held since 1888 by the Rev. James William Tasker Hart M.A. of University College, Durham. The vicarage house adjoining the church was erected in 1885.

The district of Gorse Hill has been formed into a conventional parish termed St. Barnabas, New Swindon: when the endowment is completed, which is in course of progress, it will be formed into a separate parish.

The church of St. Barnabas, on the Gorse hill, New Swindon, was opened in February, 1885, and was built at a cost of £3,200: it consists of a chancel and nave of six bays, with clerestory, and is capable of enlargement by the addition of aisles: it was designed by J. P. Seddon esq. of Westminster: the style is Transitional: it has a fine vaulted roof: the church is built of Swindon stone, with ashlar and freestone dressings: the interior is also of stone: the chancel is spacious, and is separated from the nave by a breastwork of ashlar: the floor of the chancel is laid in mosaic of various colours: the sedilia, piscina and credence are of freestone with bright blue Pennant pillars: the font is of Pennant and Mansfield marble: there is a central turret and one large bell: there are 370 sittings. The register dates from the year 1885. The Rev. Philip Maddocks B.A., B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been in charge since 1885.

A Sunday school has been built from the designs of John J. Smith, architect, Swindon, of a similar style of architecture to the church, being built of Swindon stone lined with brick, having Bath stone dressings: the roof is an open one. Special attention has been paid to the aptitude of the large room for sound, and for its being used for concerts, &c: the same architect has commission to prepare designs for the enlargement to the church and the new vicarage.

St. John the Evangelist's was consecrated 27th December, 1883: it is in the Early English style of architecture and a building of red brick, from designs by Mr. F. B. Wade, architect, of London, and consists of chancel, nave, organ chamber and vestries: there are 400 sittings, and it is served from St. Mark's.

The Catholic church, dedicated to the Holy Rood, was erected in 1875, at cost of £2,500, which included the presbytery adjoining the church, which consists of a chancel, separated from the nave by a rood screen and a Lady chapel, and has a good organ: the style is Gothic, and the walls are adorned by illustrations of the stations of the Holy Cross: every window has a design round it in gold and dark brown; similar ornamentation is on the walls, and the altar and tabernacle are also most beautifully decorated: the altar is also in the Gothic style, and has niches for six statues. In 1887 a vestry was erected: there are 200 sittings. The Rev. William Joseph Otty is the resident priest.

The Baptist tabernacle, situate in Regent street, was erected in 1886 in the Classic style of architecture, built of Bath stone at a cost of about £6,000; W. H. Read esq. M.S.A. of Swindon, was the architect. There are also large Sunday schools in the rear. The tabernacle will seat 900 persons.

The Baptists have a chapel at Gorse hill, built in 1883; will seat 250; and one in Cambria, built in 1866, for 150. Particular Baptist, Prospect hill, built in 1884, has 150 sittings.

The Congregational chapel, Sandford street, built in 1876, will seat 700 persons: a Sunday school was erected in 1888 adjoining, at a cost of £1,200.

There are four Wesleyan chapels:—Faringdon street, built in 1868, has sittings for 1,200; Gorse hill, 1883, 350; Princess street, 1884, 150; and William street, 1887, 150.

The Primitive Methodist in Regent street, built in 1876 and enlarged in 1889, has 600 seats; and that in Clifton street, built in 1881, will seat 150.

The Evangelistic Mission Hall, Rolleston street, built in 1873, seats 500 persons; and the Salvation Army Barracks, Bridge street, was built in 1868 for Baptist school.

A Presbyterian Lecture Hall on the south side of Dixon street was built in 1885, and is in the Early English style: the hall is 55 feet long and 28 feet 6 inches wide in the clear, with suitable porch, entrance and lobbies; it is lighted with gas and hot water laid on: the roof is ceiled at the collar beam, leaving exposed the principal timbers, which are stained and varnished: the floors of the session room and vestry are fire proof, with wrought iron joists and brick arches, covered with Lowe's patent wood block flooring: the hall can seat 300 persons. Mr. Orlando Baker M.S.A. of Regent street, New Swindon, was the architect.

The Cemetery, situate on a hill midway between Old and New Swindon, is about 11 acres in extent, and commands extensive and beautiful views for many miles west and north. There is a chapel in the Early English style, with apsidal east end, vestry and bell turret; also a separate mortuary chapel and a care-taker's lodge. The main entrances are at Clifton street, Radnor street, Dixon street and Lansdown road: the first burial took place 6th August, 1881: the total cost of land, laying out, drainage, building lodge, chapels &c. was about £10,000. The cemetery is under the management of a board, whose meetings are held third Tuesday in February, May, August and November, at the Local Board room, 42 Cricklade street, Swindon. Offices, 42 Cricklade street and 10 Queen Anne's buildings, Faringdon street.

New Local Board offices are about to be erected upon vacant land in Rolleston street, at a cost of about £10,000; plans are now prepared and the work will be commenced early in 1890.

The F and G Companies of the 2nd Volunteer Battalion, Duke of Edinburgh's Regiment, have their Drill Hall and Orderly Room situate at the end of the park adjoining Rodborne road.

The Great Western Railway Mechanics' Institution, situated in High street, opposite the entrance to the Great Western railway works, established in 1843, is a noble building, having a library containing upwards of 16,000 volumes: lectures, concerts and dramatic performances are frequently given in it: it has 6,000 members; it is now (1889) about to be very considerably enlarged, having a new reading room, also large additions to the present hall, new dressing rooms, smoking and reading room, and the present library enlarged to more than twice its size. A free recreation ground, with permanent pavilion, has been established for the use of cricketers, of whom there are several clubs.

The Great Western Railway Medical Fund Society have public baths situated in Taunton street: there are also in connection Turkish baths, open on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday in each week.

The United Kingdom Land and Building Association Limited, was formed for providing houses for the working classes, and shops, and has already a large number of shops and workmen's houses in New Swindon, in close proximity to the G.W.R. works. They have also works at Hill Cowleaze for the manufacture of bricks of various descriptions, roofing and garden tiles, drain pipes, flooring and ornamental squares; the clay from which they are made being some of the best in the Swindon district: one of Foster's Patent Tramway Kilns has been erected, in which the bricks are burnt on iron wagons, which pass on a tramway through the kiln: the works, which are situate about midway between Old and New Swindon, are permitted to be inspected at all reasonable times.

The area is 790 acres; the population of St. Mark's in 1861 was 4,167; in 1871, 7,628; and in 1881, 11,104; of St. Paul's in 1881, 3,982, and of the Local Board district 17,678.

FFONT EWYAS, or Evias (as it is termed in the diæval Latin of ancient records), is a parish and village, miles west from Dinton station on the Salisbury and vil branch of the South Western railway and 9½ north- from Shaftesbury, in the Southern division of the nty, Dunworth hundred, Hindon petty sessional division, ury union, Shaftesbury county court district, rural nery of Chalk, archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. church (not dedicated) is an edifice of stone in the orated style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays north aisle, having a lofty western tower with pinnacles 3 bells, surmounted by a beautiful spire, together 125 in height: a north transept was added in 1824: the rior has several handsome stained windows, painted fly by Mrs. De Salis: the manor chapel is private perty, and divided from the church by a carved oak en, being attached on the south side to the chancel, and ning into it by two arches: it is the most ancient part of present building, and contains the tombs of some of the family (former lords of Teffont manor, one of whom ried a Mayne), with three recumbent figures of knights rmour: the chapel and aisle have been roofed in oak restored by Mr. De Salis, who has also had placed over east window a marble mural tarsia, representing a choir ngels singing Hallelujah, a work of high art, executed by late Baron de Triqueti, the celebrated sculptor employed by the Queen to decorate in a similar manner the Wolsey Chapel at Windsor: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1683. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £220, including 33 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Fane-De Salis, and held since 1873 by the Rev. William Ryton Andrews M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. The rectory house was rebuilt by the late Sir G. G. Scott R.A. in 1842: it is of stone. Almshouses for two poor families were built and endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Fane-De Salis in 1886. Here is a quarry, from which was taken the stone of which Salisbury Cathedral was built: the workings extend for many acres underground, forming extensive caverns, often visited by tourists: these quarries were worked in the time of the Romans, as a large number of Roman coins have been found in the workings: since the opening of the Salisbury and Yeovil line, these quarries have been again worked to a considerable extent: they yield a Portland stone of the best description. The village is very picturesque: a beautiful brook winds its course by the side of the road, on the right, backed by a shrubby wood, with a cottage here and there on its edge, and on the opposite side the ground rises into a steep, covered with undergrowth. Teffont Manor is an ancient mansion, of the date of Henry VII. the seat of William Fane-De Salis esq. M.A., J.P.: the house contains much valuable carved oak furniture, with a choice gallery, comprising original paintings by Jean de Maubuse, Pietro Perugino, Giulio Romano and other artists, with several portraits of the French Imperial family, by Le Fevre, formerly part of the private gallery of Napoleon I. at Fontainebleau. The whole parish and manor is the property of Mr. and Mrs. Fane de Salis. The soil is sand and clay; subsoil, stone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 742 acres, inclusive of 33 acres of glebe and 27 of road, water and waste; rateable value, £1,335; the population in 1881 was 121.

LEY is half a mile south-west.

The registers until quite recently were included in the Dinton registers, which date from the year 1558; the separate registers of births and marriages of this parish date from 1852. In connection with the church a clergy house has been erected. The living is a chapelry, annexed to the vicarage of Dinton, in the gift of the President and Fellows of Magdalen College, Oxford, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Rev. Charles Falkingham Clayton M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, is curate in charge. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. There is a charity left by the late Mr. John Lush (formerly of this parish), the interest of £50 annually, distributed to the poor in blankets and Edward Harris' trust of £100, bequeathed in 1877 for coal. In this parish is a rapid stream which rises at a chalk pit called Spring Head: it passes through Teffont Magna and Teffont Ewyas and falls into the river Nadder. The earliest date of register in existence is 1639. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £203, including 1¾ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1862 by the Rev. The church of the Holy Trinity is a building of flint and stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and embattled western tower containing 5 bells: the fabric as it now stands dates from about 1490; the tower, however, shows some earlier work, of the date of about 1360; the font is old, apparently Norman, but the general character of the church is Late Third-Pointed: there is a brass to the memory of the Rev. Thomas Pierce, who was ejected from his fellowship at Magdalen College by the Committee for the Reformation of the University of Oxford, 1648, and afterwards became Dean of Salisbury: in 1882 the church was thoroughly restored, and the old high pews made into open seats: there are 200 sittings: in the churchyard are monuments to the families of Maton and Momesson. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a rectory, yearly value £324, with residence and 15 acres of glebe surrounding the parsonage, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1869 by the Rev. J. H. Johnson; the west window being in memory of the Rev. Benjamin Johnson, late vicar of Great Gibding: paints were largely used in the walling of the church: there are about 200 sittings. TISBURY is a large village and head of a union, situated on the sharp declivity of a hill, and in the valley below is the parish church and the river Nadder, which rises in the parish of Donhead St. Mary and winds its way to Salisbury; has a station on the Salisbury and Yeovil branch of the London and South Western railway, 12½ miles west from Salisbury, 8 north-east from Shaftesbury and 96¼ from London; it consists, for civil purposes, of three parishes, viz.:—EAST TISBURY, WEST TISBURY and WARDOUR, which for ecclesiastical purposes form only one parish; it is in the southern division of the county, Dunworth hundred, Hindon petty sessional division, Shaftesbury county court district, Chalk rural deanery Tisbury portion, archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. John the Baptist, supposed to have been built about 1226, is a fine old building, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, in the form of a cross, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays with aisles and transepts, with north and west porches, very ancient, the west having over it a parvise or priests' chamber, central embattled tower with pinnacles, built about 1740, and containing clock and 6 bells: there was formerly a lofty spire, which was destroyed by lightning in 1762 and again in 1795: in the private vault are interred many of the former Lords Arundell of Wardour, and the helmet of the first lord of that name, who took the standard from the Turks at the Battle of Gran, 1595, stands over his tomb: the church contains many objects of interest: the font is very ancient: a large stained east window adorns the chancel: the south aisle has a carved oak ceiling, erected about 1868: in 1887 the south transept was restored throughout; a choir vestry, clergy vestry and organ chamber were built and a new organ was erected; the chancel was newly panelled in carved oak, and a handsome reredos in alabaster and terra cotta was erected: there are sittings for 500 persons: in the churchyard is an immense yew tree, measuring 30 feet in circumference, and said by experts to be 1,300 years of age. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £441 from tithe rent-charge, net £320, with 3 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Hutchinson, of Tisbury Vicarage, and held since 1858 by the Rev. Francis Edmund Hutchinson M.A. of University College, Oxford. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1846, with 100 sittings; and a Congregational chapel, erected in 1842, to seat 400 persons; also two Primitive Methodist chapels, one in Wardour parish, built in 1877, to seat 100 persons; and one at Hatch, West Tisbury, built in 1872, to seat 90. There are charities, amounting to about £161 yearly, which are adminstered under a scheme drawn up by the Charity Commissioners. A Public Hall was erected in 1887, by a company formed for the purpose, to hold 400 persons. During the present year (1889) a new Police Station and Petty Sessions Hall has been erected, and the petty sessional division transferred from Hindon to Tisbury; the new building is admirably appointed in its various offices. Here is a large pile of buildings, formerly the country residence of the Abbess of Shaftesbury, which has for the last two centuries been occupied as a farm house with outbuildings, attached to which is a large tithe barn of the 15th century and said to be the largest in England. This is a fine agricultural district; and there are some excellent quarries, producing stone for building; the expense of carriage very much limited the use of this material, but since the construction of the Salisbury and Yeovil railway, passing within a short distance of the quarries, it has become an article of great demand. Situated on an eminence, and overlooking the surrounding country, is the CASTLE of WARDOUR, built in 1776, the seat of the Right Hon. Lord Arundell of Wardour J.P., D.L.: it is a splendid edifice, containing numerous suites of apartments; incorporated with the mansion is a beautiful Catholic chapel, dedicated to All Saints, richly fitted up, and containing a series of paintings: the extensive park and pleasure grounds are flanked by plantations, adorned with numerous groups of stately forest trees: in the vicinity are the ruins of the old castle of Wardour, which was built in 1392, and the earthworks that were thrown up by the Parliamentary army when they laid siege to that fortress: it was surrendered, after a lengthened siege, by Lady Blanche Arundell, daughter of the Earl of Worcester, when Sir Edmund Ludlow was placed in command with a large parliamentary force, but was ultimately re-taken and destroyed by the springing of a mine; Lord Arundell thus sacrificing the castle to the cause: the cemetery is a quarter of a mile from the chapel. Pyt House, the seat of Vere Fane Benett-Stanford esq. J.P., D.L. is a fine old mansion, with heavy porticoes over the principal entrances; the family are descended from Col. Benett, who was M.P. for Shaftesbury in the reign of Charles I.: the house, standing on high ground, commands some fine views, among others Kingsettle hill, and is situated amid a beautifully-arranged park of 150 acres. Lord Arundell of Wardour D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Lord Arundell of Wardour D.L., J.P. Vere Fane Benett-Stanford esq. D.L., J.P. Alfred Morrison esq. William Wyndham esq. and Sir Michael R. Shaw-Stewart bart. D.L., J.P. The soil is various, some light loam, clay and stone and light chalk; subsoil, clay and gravel, chalk and flint and sandstone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley and some land in pasturage. The area of the three parishes is 7,290 acres.

TOCKENHAM is a parish, 3½ miles south-west from Wootton Bassett station and 11 south-west from Swindon, in the Northern division of the county, Cricklade and Wootton Bassett union, petty sessional division of Wootton Bassett and county court district of Swindon, rural deanery of Avebury, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The Wilts and Berks canal and the Great Western railway pass through the parish. The church of St. John is a small ancient Gothic stone structure, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, western bell-cot with one bell: it was thoroughly restored in 1876 at the sole cost of a former rector, the Rev. J. J. Stanton: there is a handsome monument to the Goddard-Smith family, dating from 1692: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the later part of the 16th century. The living is a rectory, yearly tithe rent-charge £230, gross income £313, net £243, including parsonage house and 36 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1889 by the Rev. James Hawes M.A. of Hertford College, Oxford. The charities amount to about £16 yearly, arising from £500 invested in Consols by Mrs. Ann Jacob in 1780, and from £200 similarly invested by Mrs. Mary Clutterbuck in 1784: the cost of keeping the family tombs in repair is deducted, and the remainder, together with a rent-charge of £3 on the Tockenham estate, is distributed among the poor who are not in receipt of parish relief. The soil is of a sandy nature; subsoil, rock. The chief crops are wheat and some pasture land. The area is 761 acres; rateable value, £1,751; the population in 1881 was 149.

TOLLARD ROYAL is a parish and village, 17½ miles south-west from Salisbury, 8 south-east from Shaftesbury and 10 south-east from Semley station on the Salisbury and Yeovil branch of the London and South Western railway, on the Dorsetshire border, and close to the bounds of Cranborne Chase, in the Southern division of the county, Chalke hundred, Hindon petty sessional division, Tisbury union, Shaftesbury county court district, Chalk rural deanery Tisbury portion, and archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The parish is divided into four farms—Higher Farm, Lower Farm, Corner Farm and Thorn Farm; the parish is called Royal in consequence of John, Earl of Gloucester, afterwards King John, holding a knight's fee here; King John also held the chase of Cranborne and used occasionally to reside here; the name of his palace is still attached to a house in the neighbourhood. Tollard Royal church and the whole of the parish are in this county, but the rector has tithes of a district of 1,260 acres of land in the neighbouring county of Dorset, called Tollard Farnham, and the cure of souls extends to the inhabitants of Tollard Farnham as well as Tollard Royal. The church of St. Peter ad Vincula, or St. Peter in Chains, is an edifice of stone in the Gothic style; it has chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower containing 5 bells, with a plain turret and embattled parapet, and in 1882 it was put into thorough repair; it stands on higher ground than the few houses comprising the village: in the chancel there is a memorial window to the late Lord and Lady Rivers, whose seat, Rushmore, was in the adjoining parish of Berwick St. John, and who died in April, 1866, within forty-eight hours of each other, and to one of their daughters, the wife of Captain Arbuthnot, who, while on her wedding tour in Switzerland, was struck dead by lightning, June 21st, 1865, eight weeks after her marriage in this church: in the wall near the pew in which the deceased formerly sat is a wooden cross, originally raised by the inhabitants of the Alpine village near which the sad event happened, and subsequently removed and a stone cross substituted for it: a brass tablet on the wall surmounts the cross and records the circumstances: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1777. The living is a rectory, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £570, with 80 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of and held since 1865 by the Rev. George Howard Waterfall M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. The principal landowners are Sir Thomas Fraser Grove bart. M.P., D.L., J.P. and Lieut.-Gen. A. H. L. Fox-Pitt-Rivers D.L., J.P. of Rushmore, who is lord of the manor. The soil is light and flinty; subsoil, chalk and flint. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,807 acres of corn and down land; rateable value, £1,503; the population in 1881 was 464, of which 897 acres and 184 inhabitants are in Tollard Farnham.

TROWBRIDGE.

THIS ancient manufacturing town is situated on the line of the Great Western railway to Salisbury and Weymouth, on which it has a station, at the west end of the town, and on the bank of the river Mere or Biss, a feeder of the Avon; it is 106 miles from London by rail, 11 south-west from Devizes, 9½ north-west from Warminster, 10 north-east from Frome, 11 south-east from Bath, 5 north-west from Westbury, 3 south-east from Bradford, 5½ from Melksham, 11¾ from Chippenham and 32 north-west from Salisbury; it is in the Western division of the county, the head of a county court district and petty sessional division, and a parish in the Melksham hundred and union, rural deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury, and includes the tithings of STAVERTON and STUDLEY. The streets in general are irregular.

The town is governed by a local board of health of 21 members and is lighted with gas by a company whose works r e at Gooseacre. The Trowbridge Water Co. was incorporated in 1873; the works were inaugurated on the 30th September, 1874, when the water was supplied to the town by a temporary arrangement, and on this occasion was thrown over the church spire, a height of 159 feet; the water is obtained from the chalk hills, in the hamlet of Biss, where an adit has been made to intercept the springs, forming the principal source of the river Biss: from this adit the water passes into a main of about 7 miles in length, whence it is delivered to Trowbridge. The Compensation works at Semington consist of a pump worked by a turbine, by which the compensating water is lifted from a stream, called the Semington brook, and conducted partly in an open channel and partly through an iron main into the river Biss, at a point just above that where the cloth mills are situated, thus giving to the river at a lower point a quantity equal to that abstracted at the source. The engineer was Mr. Henry Tomlinson C.E. Cambridge.

The Kennet and Avon Navigation passes within a mile of the town and joins the river Avon at Bath, which is navigable thence through Bristol to the Severn; the Somerset canal brings coal into the Kennet and Avon canal for the supply of the town and a vast extent of country.

The parish church of St. James is an ancient stone structure, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave of ten bays, aisles, and north porch, and embattled west square tower, with pinnacles and surmounted by a spire 159 feet high, with a fine peal of 8 bells and clock: the entire building underwent considerable alteration and repair in 1848, during the incumbency of the Rev. John David Hastings, and a restoration of much of its original architectural beauty, at an expense of upwards of £8,000, contributed by the inhabitants of Trowbridge and the neighbouring gentry: George Crabbe, the poet, was for eighteen years rector of this parish, and his remains were deposited in a vault in the chancel of the church: here are several monuments: the baptistery at the west end has been restored by Mr. Alexander Mackay, and the floor handsomely laid with mosaic marble; it has two iron gates: the interior contains ten stained windows, one in memory of John Clark, one to William Willis, one to Maria Waldron and one to Sarah Maria Gane, daughter of George Webb: there are sittings for 666 persons. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, of the net yearly value of £250, with residence and 67 acres of glebe, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Henry Trotter M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, and surrogate.

In Castle street is St. Stephen's chapel of ease to the mother church, formerly a Baptist chapel: it has a Gothic chancel and handsome window, with a figure of St. Stephen, its patron saint; it is capable of seating between 500 and 600 persons.

HOLY TRINITY is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1839; the church is a handsome stone cruciform edifice, erected in 1838, situated at the west end of the town, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and western tower containing one bell and clock: it was thoroughly repaired and beautified about 1861, and again in 1884: it contains four stained windows, one being the east window, paid for by subscription, one to Digby Walsh, by subscription of the congregation, and two memorial windows to Charles Gane esq. and his wife: also a stone pulpit: there are 600 sittings. The register dates from the year 1839. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £265, with residence, in the gift of the rector of the parish church, and held since 1881 by the Rev. James Coombe Noel B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The area of the ecclesiastical parish is 833 acres; the population in 1881 was 4,160.

ST. THOMAS is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1870. The church is situated in the north-east end of the town, and was built at the cost of Thomas Clark esq. in memory of his father: it is a cruciform stone building in the Early English style, consisting of nave of two bays, aisles and transepts, south porch, with western bell turret containing 4 bells, and surmounted by a spire: there are 320 sittings. The register dates from the year 1870. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £153, with residence, in the gift of five trustees, and held since 1880 by the Rev. William Henry Start of the London College of Divinity. The area is 152 acres; the population in 1881 was 1,643.

The Catholic chapel, Wingfield road, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, is a stone building, erected in 1875, and has 280 sittings.

The Baptists have chapels in Back street, erected in 1736, having 860 sittings: in Courts, built 1813, with 840 seats: Particular Baptist in Union street, in 1816, for 700 persons: and a chapel at Conigree, erected in 1820, with 400 sittings.

The Congregational tabernacle, Church street, founded in 1771, has sittings for 715 persons.

The Congregational chapel, Silver street, was erected in 1740, and has 240 seats.

The Wesleyans have three chapels, one in Manvers street, erected in 1826, and having 800 sittings; another in Wesley road, New town, erected in 1871, seating 300 persons; and the third at Islington, erected in 1814, with 220 seats.

A Cemetery of ten acres, situated at The Down, was formed in 1856, at a cost of £5,045, having two mortuary chapels; it is under the control of a burial board of nine.

The Town Hall stands on the east side of the Market House, immediately in front of the People's Park, and was provided by the liberality of Mr. Roger Brown, of Highfield, Hilperton. The foundation stone was laid by Mrs. Brown, in 1887: and the building opened on June 14, 1889, by H.R.H. the Duchess of Albany: the style of architecture is partly of Queen Anne and the Elizabethan periods, with an adaptation to the present Victorian age, having gabled roof with a tower over the entrance: the material used is local stone, the face of the walls being Atworth in range work, with Corsham Down freestone dressings and cornices; Boxground stone being used for set-off and copings: the façade is richly ornamented with carvings and the royal arms and also those of the donor on the main gables: the tower is 101 feet 6 inches in height, and the two clock dials are each five feet in diameter: the quarters are chimed on two bells, and the hour struck on a third, weighing 14 cwt.: on the lower portion of the tower appear panels, representing the staple trade of the town. The main doorway has boldly recessed piers and capitals, richly ornamented, supporting three concentric arches, delicately cut and of original design. The vestibule is floored with a handsome mosaic pavement, and has a tinted tiled dado 5 feet in height round the walls. The hall is well lighted and has polished columns of Purbeck marble, with moulded stone caps carrying semicircular arches supporting the first floor: on the right side and facing the street is a cloak room for gentlemen and a room for solicitors and barristers, 14 feet by 17 feet 6 inches. The noblest room on the ground floor is the Sessions Court, being 37 feet square: due provision is made for the bench, bar, jury, officials, with a gallery for the public. The grounds at the rear of the building, though small, have been tastefully laid out. The gables in the rear of the hall are ornamented with the Wiltshire arms and the arms of the lord lieutenant. The total cost of the building is about £20,000. Mr. Goodridge, of Bath, was the architect, and Messrs. Wilkins, of Bristol, the contractors.

The Widows' Almshouses have an endowment left by Henry, Edward and William Yerbury in 1698, now producing £120 yearly, from lands and money in the Funds, and are for six poor widows; each inmate is paid £1 5s. monthly.

The Old Men's Almshouses, in Union street, were built by public subscription in 1861, and are maintained by the income from funded property and by voluntary subscriptions. There are eight houses and each occupant receives 5s. weekly and usually a supply of fuel.

Charities producing £66 yearly are distributed in bread; there were left by William Wallis in 1652 £20 and Edward Wallis £10; in 1661 Ezekiel Wallis £10; in 1692 Henry Wallis £50; in 1693 Mrs. Ann Wallis £20; in 1700 Robert Pinchin £100; in 1704 Richard Singer £120; in 1721 Mrs. Ann Wallis £30; in 1736 William Temple £20; in 1776 William Temple £20; in 1802 John Clark 50 guineas. In 1692 Henry Bissee left £50, the profits to apprentice a poor boy; in 1724 James Singer left £200, the interest to pay for the education of ten poor boys; in 1736 Richard Shrapnell left £20, the interest to pay for the education of one poor boy.

A Cottage Hospital, situated in the Halve, a new building on the most approved plan, was erected in 1883, and given to the town by the late Mr. Jesse Gouldsmith, and was established in 1870 for diseases and accidents; a small weekly charge is made for sick patients, but accidents are admitted free. There are four wards containing ten beds, and in 1888 there were 42 patients. Visiting days, Tuesdays 2 till 4; Fridays, 6 till 8 p.m.

A Public Soup Kitchen, for the gratuitous distribution of soup, has been given to the town by Mrs. Gouldsmith, and is situated in Conigree.

The Public Pleasure Grounds, consisting of about 4 acres, were opened in 1884, and in 1887 were purchased by public subscription, and vested in the Local Board. At the same time the Queen Victoria Jubilee Widows' Fund was established, the invested capital of which amounts to £1,000.

The Police Station is in Stallard street; it contains courthouse and jury rooms, and the superintendent, Mr. Henry White, resides on the premises.

The market days are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday; a large cattle market is held on alternate Tuesdays; and a fair is held annually on the 5th, 6th and 7th of August.

The chief employment of the inhabitants is the manufacture of kerseymere, broad and other woollen cloths, established here as early as the reign of Henry VIII. and now the largest in the West of England. There are also extensive breweries and engineering works.

Trowbridge, as far as regards the regular forces, is attached to the Western military district, the remainder of Wiltshire being included in the Southern district. The artillery barracks, situated on the Frome road, are capable of containing about 150 men, and are now occupied by the 25th Field Brigade, Royal Artillery.

George Keats, the poet, was born here in 1729, and died in 1797. The site of the old castle, held by the Empress Matilda against Stephen, may be recognized by a mound called Court hill, but the castle itself has long disappeared.

Trowbridge, in the earliest records called Straburgh, was formerly a royal manor, which was given by Henry VIII. to the Somerset family, in whose possession it remained until the marriage of Lady Frances Seymour, daughter of Algernon, seventh Duke of Somerset, with the Marquis of Granby, afterwards Duke of Rutland, from whose family it was purchased by the late Thomas Timbrell esq. and is now held by William Stancomb esq. J.P. of Blount Court, Potterne, who purchased the manor from the Timbrell family.

Earl Manvers is the lord of the inferior manor of Trowbridge Dauntsey.

The area is 2,442 acres; rateable value, £40,984; the population in 1881 was 11,396, including Staverton and Studley and 119 in the barracks; and of the Local Board district 11,040.

WARMINSTER.

WARMINSTER is a market and union town, head of a county court district and petty sessional division and parish, giving name to the hundred; it has a station on the Wilts, Somerset and Weymouth branch of the Great Western railway, and is in the Western division of the county, rural deanery of Wylye Heytesbury portion, and Salisbury archdeaconry and diocese, situated at the western extremity of the county and of Salisbury Plain, on the river Wylye, which is here a mill-stream, 114 miles from London, 4 south from Westbury, 9 south from Trowbridge, 14 south from Melksham, 20¼ south from Chippenham, 37 south-west from Swindon, 17 south-west from Devizes and 21 north-west from Salisbury. This was a Roman settlement, and is mentioned in the Domesday Survey by the name of Guermistre, and was then considered ancient, and possessed many privileges. The town is at the junction of the roads from Bath, Frome, Salisbury and Shaftesbury, and consists principally of one street, about a mile in length, lighted by gas and well paved, and is governed by a Local Board of Health of 15 members, formed in June, 1867, who are also the Urban Sanitary authority, and have established waterworks.

The parish church of St. Denys, at the western extremity of the town, was formerly an ancient stone structure in various styles, dating from the time of Henry II. but was completely rebuilt, with the exception of the tower, in 1887-89, from plans by Sir Arthur Blomfield, at a total cost of about £10,000, raised by subscription: it is now a handsome cruciform structure, chiefly in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, south and west porches, south transept, two vestries, and organ chamber, and the original central embattled tower, with pinnacles, which contains a fine peal of bells: the organ, which was first used in 1792, is a very fine one, and was built to the order of King George III. for Salisbury Cathedral: in the north wall of the chancel is a stained window given by Mr. H. P. Jones in memory of his son, and the beautiful new font of Hoptown stone was also given by him in memory of his daughter, Miss E. E. Jones: there is a fine stained east window and numerous mural monuments, dating from 1635 to 1649: the carved oak pulpit was given by Miss Vicary: the church was re-opened by the bishop of the diocese on February 21st, 1889: there are sittings for 1,000 persons. The earliest date of the register is 1556. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £40, gross yearly value £415, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held since 1859 by the Rev. Sir James Erasmus Philipps bart. M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, canon non-residentiary of Salisbury.

Christ Church, Sambourne, is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1838; the church was erected in 1832 as a chapel of ease, by subscription, aided by Parliamentary grant: it is a plain stone building, consisting of chancel, nave, north and south porches, square western embattled tower, with pinnacles, containing a fine peal of 8 bells: the chancel was added in 1871, the interior restored, and an organ inserted, at a cost of £1,000, and in 1881 the interior was again restored at a cost of £1,400 raised by subscription: the church will seat about 960 persons. The register dates from the year 1833. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £300, including 3 acres of glebe, in the gift of the vicar of Warminster, and held since 1867 by the Rev. William Hickman M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. The population of the district in 1881 was 1,862.

The chapel of St. Lawrence, a chapel of ease, and old chantry of the reign of Edward I. stands near the Town Hall; it is of stone in the Early English style, and has nave and Norman western tower, with a spire and one bell, and is used for week day services: there are sittings for 100 persons.

St. John the Evangelist's is a chapel of ease, standing at the eastern extremity of the town, and was consecrated in 1865: eight acres of land were given for the church, churchyard and glebe, by the late W. Temple esq. of Bishopstrow House, and his son, the late G. Temple esq.; they also gave upwards of £700; the total cost was about £3,000: the church is an adaptation of 14th century architecture, and comprises chancel, with vestry and organ chamber on the north side, and a nave with a north aisle of three bays, south porch and a western turret, containing one bell: on t west wall there is a large Serpentine cross: the font, the g of the Misses Temple, is of Painswick stone and Devonsh marble: there is a handsome stone lych-gate erected memory of the wife of the late W. Temple esq.: the cha has 300 sittings.

Here is a Congregational chapel, founded 1827, with 3 sittings; Baptist, 1812, with 250; and Wesleyan, 1825, w 200 sittings.

The charities amount to about £320, arising from vario bequests, and distributed in money, clothing, coals and fo annually at Christmas.

The Missionary College of St. Boniface was established the present vicar in 1860, for the training of young m who desire to devote their lives to the work of Foreign M sions, but are not sufficiently instructed to enter St. Aug tine's College, Canterbury, or other missionary colleg There are at present 20 students.

The Orphanage of Pity consists of three houses, in wh are 57 children; it has no endowment, and is supported what is given from day to day: it is free to orphan child from all parts, who are of legitimate birth. The Warmins Cottage Hospital was established in 1866: there are 11 be and 90 patients were treated here during the year 1888. 1873 almshouses for four aged women, with a gift of 6s. week each, were erected by Mrs. Warren, in memory of husband.

The Town Hall is a handsome edifice, in the Elizabeth style, erected in 1830 by the Marquess of Bath, and conta courts for the administration of justice, and rooms r assemblies and for public meetings: the Local and High Boards meet here: petty sessions are held here monthly, the July quarter sessions for the county: the County cour also held here: in 1888 a considerable addition was mad the cell accommodation for prisoners at quarter sessions.

Here is a silk winding mill, employing about 200 ha also two large engineering and agricultural implement steam plough works: there are also four large breweries, malting is carried on to a considerable extent. There is a g corn market on Saturday; and fairs are held on the 2 April, 11th August and 26th October.

The Savings Bank, a fine building, in the Elizabet n style, was erected in 1852, at a cost of £2,000. Ther is also an Athenæum, with about 150 members, and in c nection is a Lecture Hall erected as a memorial of the Charles Bleeck esq. at a cost of £1,500; there is als a literary institution.

In Pitmead, a large mea w on the Wylye, 2 miles east from Warminster, some beau ul mosaic pavements and other Roman remains have been s- covered at various times; in a vale of the same river is BARROW, one of the largest British barrows in the cou y: and on the summit of the conical eminence of Copheap ill is another large barrow, which was opened by Sir R. C. re in 1809, and found to contain several skeletons. Cold r- bour was a Roman military halting place. Numerous sil remains are also in the soil.

WESTBURY is a union town and parish, 109½ miles from London, 26 north-west from Salisbury, 4½ north from Warminster, and 5 south from Trowbridge, and head of a petty sessional division and county court district, in the Western division of the county, rural deanery of Wylye Heytesbury portion, and Salisbury archdeaconry and diocese. The G.W. line to Somerset and Dorset passes through and the Salisbury branch forms a junction here. The town, which gives name to the hundred, is very ancient, and is supposed to have been the scene of an engagement between Alfred and the Danes in the year 890, to commemorate which there is a figure of a horse, of enormous size, cut on the side of BRATTON HILL, which is commonly called BRATTON CASTLE; the soil being chalk, the figure can be distinctly seen for many miles, and in 1873 a committee was formed, by whom the horse was thoroughly re-instated, at an expense of £40, and is now cleaned when necessary. In the town stands the Market House, erected in the year 1815 by the late Sir Manasseh Massey Lopes bart. and now used as a Town Hall, in which the County Court is held bi-monthly. In the reign of Henry IV. Westbury had a charter of incorporation granted, and had a mayor, recorder, and twelve capital burgesses; but the mayor exercised no magisterial authority, and the corporation, under the Municipal Act, 1883, ceased in March, 1886. The borough formerly returned two members to Parliament; but was disfranchised by the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," and merged in the county. The church of All Saints is a very beautiful building of stone, having chancel (re-built in 1863), nave, south and west porches, and a fine embattled central tower, in the Perpendicular style, containing 6 deep-toned bells: the windows of the chancel are stained, and it is paved with encaustic tiles: in 1867 the whole of the stonework was restored, and a new floor put down, and the church re-seated with oak, and a handsome pulpit provided: the alterations cost between £3,000 and £4,000: there are several fine stained windows: it contains, among others, a fine monument to James Ley, first Earl of Marlborough, and Lord Treasurer ob. 1629: there are 750 sittings. The registers date from the year 1566. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelries of Dilton and Westbury Leigh, gross yearly value £432, including 33 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held since 1886 by the Rev. William Philip Strong Bingham M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. There are two Congregational chapels, one for Baptists, and one for Wesleyans. Here is a cemetery of 5 acres, with two mortuary chapels, and an entrance lodge on the Bratton road, opened on the 12th of May, 1857; it is under the control of a Burial Board of 9 members. The charities for distribution amount to £200 yearly. John Matravers esq. by will, dated 26th April, 1814, gave to his trustees £1,000, free of legacy duty, to purchase clothing for 20 poor women residing in Westbury. The Laverton Institute, erected at a cost of over £4,000, by the late Abraham Laverton esq. M.P. is a substantial structure of red brick with Bath stone dressings, with clock tower containing a clock lighted by gas; the Institute has rooms in which various societies hold their meetings, and a large room for lectures, public meetings, and musical entertainments: the room will hold 350 persons: there is likewise at the rear a boys' British school, capable of holding 100 scholars, with separate approach on the north-west side of the principal entrance: it occupies an elevated position on the descent of the hill, at the south-west end of the Bratton road, and was opened on the 11th of September, 1873. Public baths were erected and presented to the town in 1887 by Wm. Henry Laverton esq. J.P. The trade of the town is chiefly in the manufacture of fancy woollen coatings and meltons, employing about 400 hands; malting is likewise carried on, and there are two brick and tile works. WILTON is a municipal borough, union town and parish, with a station on the South Western and Great Western railways, and is situate near the confluence of the rivers Nadder and Wylye, 3 miles north-west from Salisbury and 86 from London, in the Southern division of the county, Branch and Dole hundred, petty sessional division of Salisbury and Amesbury, Salisbury county court district, rural deanery of Wilton, archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The town is supposed by Baxter to have been the Caer Guilo, or capital of the British prince Caroilius, and subsequently an important seat of the West Saxons; it was certainly an important place previous to the Norman accession: in 871 King Alfred fought a battle against the Danes, who, although ultimately successful, sued for peace here, but in 1003 Wilton was partially devastated by Sweyn, King of Denmark: in 1143 it was taken possession of by Stephen, who, however, was compelled to vacate it by the army of the Empress Matilda, by whom it was burnt: it was afterwards rebuilt: it was, in 1579, visited by Queen Elizabeth: in 1603 it was for a time the residence of the court. Wilton was at a very remote period the seat of a monastery; Wulfstan, Earl of Wiltshire, is said to have commenced this foundation by the erection of an oratory: thirty years after his death, Alburga, his widow, succeeded in raising this oratory into a priory: King Alfred, after defeating the Danes, erected a nunnery and transferred it to the sisters of the priory: Æditha, daughter of Earl Godwin, and the virgin wife of Edward the Confessor, was educated here, and Maud, queen of Henry I. passed her early days between Romsey and this house: Wilton was the head of the diocese during the 10th and 11th centuries: the episcopal see was transferred to Sarum by William the Conqueror, which caused the decline of Wilton: the borough first sent two members to Parliament in 23rd Edward I. but by the Reform Act the number was reduced to one, and by the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885, lost its separate representation, and was made the head of a parliamentary division. From a very early period, prior to the reign of Henry I. Wilton has been a corporate borough: it was not included in the Municipal Corporations Act of 1835, but by an Order in Council, dated May 15th, 1885, a new municipal charter was granted under the Reformed Municipal Corporations Act of 1866. Under the new scheme, the old corporate borough boundary is extended, and includes the whole of the parish of Wilton, with parts of the parishes of Burcombe, South Newton and Bugglestone St. Peter. The old close Corporation and the Local Board of Health is merged in the new governing body. The charter provides that the town shall consist of one ward, to be governed by a mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors, who shall also discharge the duties of Urban Sanitary Authority. The first election under the Municipal Corporations Act took place in November, 1885. The town is lighted with gas from works the property of the corporation. The parish church of SS. Mary and Nicholas was built by the late Lord Herbert of Lea and the Countess of Pembroke in 1844, in lieu of the old one: the expense was upwards of £40,000: it is in the Romanesque style, consisting of chancel, with chancel aisles, nave of six bays and aisles: the north front is raised on a terrace approached by a flight of steps, and the central entrance of this front is through a deeply recessed porch within a rich archway, above which is a large elaborate rose window: the campanile tower, 100 feet high, containing 6 bells, at the north-east angle, is connected with the building by a cloister, with elaborately carved open arches: beneath the communion table the floor is composed of Italian agates and marble: the ceiling over this, as well as the chancel and altar-piece, is beautifully illuminated in blue and gold: the pulpit is composed of Caen stone, supported by 16 black marble pillars: the body of it is beautifully inlaid with mosaic work, brought from the church of Santa Maria Maggiore: the lessons are read from a lectern in front of the communion table: at the opposite end is the gallery, beneath which is the screen, elegantly carved in stone: the font is massive, of black and variegated Italian marble: the church contains a marble bust of Henry, 9th Earl of Pembroke, who held many offices of state under George II. also monuments with two recumbent figures in white marble of the late Countess of Pembroke and Lord Herbert of Lea: there is also a fine organ, presented to the church by the present Earl of Pembroke: the windows are all stained: there are sittings for 800 persons. The register dates from the year 1615. The living is a rectory, with Bulbridge, Ditchampton and Netherhampton annexed, gross yearly value £530, with 10 acres of glebe land and residence, in the gift of the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, and held since 1867 by the Rev. Dacres Olivier M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, canon and prebendary of Salisbury. Here are Nonconformist places of worship, with sittings as under:—Congregational, 550; Primitive Methodist, 150; Wesleyan, 90; and Friends' Meeting House, 70. In the Town Hall hangs an extract from the will of R. Sumption esq. which is as follows:—£4,000 in aid of the Free school; £1,000 for the better clothing and apprenticing the children; £1,000 as a marriage portion for poor young women, natives of the town, not to exceed £10 to each; also £2,000 toward the clothing and support of five poor men and five women above the age of 50, residents of the place for seven years previously. James Rawlence esq. of Bulbridge, gave £1,000 for the endowment of a trained nurse for the poor. There are also many other charities in aid of the school and for distribution. Part of the tithing of DITCHAMPTON belongs to the parish of Burcombe, but it lies contiguous to and forms part of the borough of Wilton, and is 2 miles east from Burcombe. The Hospital of St. John, at Ditchampton, in the parish of Burcombe, was founded by Hubert, Bishop of Sarum, in 1189, for two poor men and two poor women (who receive 8s. per week) and a prior, who is appointed by the Dean of Salisbury; the appointment is at present held by the Rev. William Savage M.A. vicar of Burcombe. Wilton is noted as the first place in England where carpeting was manufactured: Messrs. Yates and Co. have a large factory here; in addition to Wilton carpets, the celebrated Axminster carpets are largely produced: there is also a large pianoforte-felt factory. The sheep fairs are held on the 4th of May, for horses, cattle and sheep, and on September 12th, when between 90,000 and 100,000 are generally penned, being one of the largest fairs in the west of England. At the Dissolution Wilton Abbey was granted to Sir William Herbert, afterwards Earl of Pembroke, who commenced the erection of Wilton House, the present stately pile, on the ancient site; the designs were by Holbein and Inigo Jones: here Sir Philip Sidney is said to have composed the "Arcadia:" in this house, the seat of the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, is an extensive and beautiful collection of paintings, several of them Vandykes, and one of the finest collections of that eminent artist, and ancient marble sculpture, and also many suits of armour, several being trophies from the battle of St. Quentin, in 1557, at which an Earl of Pembroke commanded the English: the river Nadder flows through the grounds, and is crossed by an elegant bridge with an open Ionic colonnade; the park of 250 acres contains some fine cedars of Lebanon and a herd of deer. The names of the inhabitants of BURDEN'S BALL, which belongs to South Newton, are given here. BULBRIDGE is another tithing and adjoins the town. The Earl of Pembroke is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is alluvial and clay; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and green crops. The area of the parish is 1,827 acres of land and 25 of water; rateable value, £7,561; the population in 1881 was 1,826, and of the borough, 8,802.

The church of St. Mary is a small old stone structure, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, embattled western square tower with pinnacles containing 3 bells: the church has been reseated and otherwise improved, and in 1861 was enlarged by the addition of a north transept, at a cost of £110, raised by subscription, when a stained window was also placed in the chancel: there are 190 sittings. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £260, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1887 by the Rev. John Haydon Cardew B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. There are two charities, one of the annual value of £4, for apprenticing boys; the other, of the annual value of £3, to be distributed among the second poor of the parish. Wingfield House is the residence of His Honor Camille Felix Desiré Caillard D.L., J.P. county court judge. The chief landowners are Sir Victor Lewis Houlton G.C.M.G., M.A. of Farleigh Castle, and W. H. Laverton esq. of Leighton House, Westbury. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The land is chiefly in pasture. WINSLEY is a scattered village, and was with LIMPLEY STOKE formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1846 from the civil parish of Bradford, a mile and a half west from Bradford-on-Avon and 5 miles south-east from Bath, in the Western division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, union, and county court district of Bradford-on-Avon, deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. Nicholas is in the centre of the village: it was rebuilt of stone in the Perpendicular style in 1841, and consists of chancel and nave and south porch: the old tower, containing 3 bells, which stood at the west end of the old church, now stands isolated, and only connected by a passage to the gallery of the new church: the church is not remarkable for architectural beauty, but the tower is much admired, being one of the best kind of the ancient saddle-back: the church is now (1889) being reseated and in other respects improved: the church will seat about 500 people. The register dates from the year 1724. Winsley and Limpley Stoke form one benefice, a vicarage, of the joint yearly value of £300 net, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Bristol, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Francis Stephen Forss T.A.K.C.L. surrogate, who resides at Limpley Stoke. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. Near the church is a small gorge in the hill side called Danes-bottom, where, according to tradition, a battle was fought between these invaders and the troops of Alfred. Atwood's charity of £17 yearly, derived from funded property, is for distribution in money. The inhabitants are employed chiefly in agriculture and in working in the freestone quarries. The Kennet and Avon canal passes through the parish in the valley. From the hill may be seen the canal, river Avon, railway and road, running at different elevations side by side through the valley. The hill sides are clothed with woods, where, through their bold, rocky character, cultivation in places is impossible; hence the valley appears beautifully wooded, and the foliage with its varying tints presents a scene of surpassing loveliness. Here is a pumping station of the Bradford Waterworks, which supplies the reservoir. The soil is chiefly stone brash; subsoil, freestone; the crops are barley, oats, wheat and roots. The area, including Limpley Stoke, is 3,247 acres; the population in 1881 of the ecclesiastical district of Winsley and Limpley Stoke was 1,027.

LIMPLEY STOKE will be found under a separate head.

WOOTTON BASSETT is a market town and parish (formerly a borough), pleasantly situated on an eminence overlooking a large extent of fertile and highly cultivated country, with a station on the Great Western railway, 83 miles from London, 5¾ west from Swindon, 24 from Bath, 38 north from Salisbury, and 31 miles by rail, 18 north from Devizes, in the Northern division of the county, Kingsbridge hundred, Cricklade and Wootton Bassett union, Swindon county court district, petty sessional division of Cricklade and Wootton Bassett, rural deanery of Avebury, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury: it was formerly governed by a mayor, two aldermen and twelve capital burgesses, but under the provisions of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1883, the incorporation ceased to exist in March, 1886. The Wilts and Berks canal passes within half a mile south of the town. Wootton Bassett was at the time of the Norman accession called Wodeton, and about a century after it became the property of the Bassetts, from whom it received the adjunct to its name; it consists of a single street nearly half a mile long, near the centre of which stands the Market House and Town Hall. Henry VI. enfranchised the town; the charter of incorporation was granted by Queen Elizabeth, which was renewed with increased privileges by Charles II. in a charter dated 2nd December, 1679, and the borough returned two members to Parliament till deprived of it by the Reform Act. The town is lighted with gas by a limited liability company, and has been much improved. The church of St. Bartholomew is of stone, in the Early English style, and consists of a chancel, nave of five bays, and aisles, south porch, and square embattled western tower containing 5 bells, and contains an organ: in cleaning the south wall some years ago a curious painting, in a rude style, was discovered of the murder of Thomas à Becket: in 1871 the church was thoroughly restored, at a cost of between £6,000 and £7,000, by the trustees of the late Sir Henry Meux bart: in 1877 a handsome stained window was added in memory of the late Earl and Countess of Clarendon: in 1884 a clock was placed in the tower at a cost of £150 by public subscription. There are several stained windows: there are sittings for 800 persons. The register dates from the year 1584. In the vestry are various old deeds and a list of vicars from 1,200. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £520, including 92 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Sir Henry Bruce Meux bart. and held since 1886 by the Rev. Henry Kennedy Anketell. Here is a Congregational Chapel, with 200 sittings; a Wesleyan chapel, built in 1855, seating 200 persons; a Baptist chapel, built 1878, with 100 seats; and Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1838, with sittings for 400 persons, with vestry attached. The Cemetery of 2 acres, with two mortuary chapels, was opened in 1871 at a cost of £2,000, and is governed by a burial board of 9 members. There are charities, producing about £52 yearly, left by Charles Compton in 1700, Rev. Charles Pynner, Sir Francis Inglefield Gallimores, Lord Clarendon's charity (left in 1786); and Lord Clarendon, in 1824, left £100, the interest to be given to the poor not receiving parochial relief. Hiring fairs are held on the Tuesday before the 6th of April, and Tuesday before the 11th of October, instituted in 1836, which are nearly obsolete. A large market is held on the first Wednesday in every month for cattle. The Town Hall is now (1889) being thoroughly restored at the cost of Sir Henry Bruce Meux: it is a half-timbered structure, with oak staircase; the upper part will form reading-rooms and a museum, to which will be restored the ancient ducking-stool which had been removed from here to Devizes; the lower portion will be used as a market and corn exchange. An ancient hospital formerly existed here, and was dedicated to St. John, and in the reign of Henry IV. was united to the Priory of Bradenstoke. There is a saline spring on Whitehill Farm, in the parish, the waters of which are considered beneficial. Vasterne House, the old manor house, once a royal residence, has been restored by Sir H. B. Meux bart. and is now occupied by his estate agent, Ernest C. Trepplin esq. M.A. Sir Henry Bruce Meux bart. of Dauntsey, is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is oolite brash; subsoil, clay. The land is chiefly in pasture. The area is 4,830 acres; rateable value, £15,203; and the population in 1881 was 2,237. Greenhill, 1½ miles south, and Woodshaw 1 east, are tithings in this parish.

SOUTH WRAXHALL (or WRAXALL) is a chapelry, tithing and ecclesiastical parish, 3 miles from Bradford-on-Avon, 3½ south from Box station on the Great Western railway and 5 north-west from Trowbridge, divided into Upper and Lower Wraxhall, in the Western division of the county, in the civil parish, hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Bradford-on-Avon, rural deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. James is an ancient and interesting stone structure in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, north aisle, and south chapel containing several monuments of the Long family, south porch, with square western tower, containing 6 bells and surmounted by a very curious gabled turret: it was restored in 1882 and has 175 sittings. The register dates from the year 1672. The living was in 1866 constituted by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners a vicarage, present yearly value £315, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Bristol, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Octavius Maunsell Grindon. Here is a small Congregational chapel. Wraxhall Manor House is supposed to have been built somewhere about the 13th century; the first recorded possessor was Robert Longe, in the commission of the peace 1426, and M.P. for Wilts 1433, and it has remained in possession of the Wraxhall Longs ever since: the house at one period was leased to a Dr. Knight, who kept a school there, and much disfigured the house by plastering over the carved ceilings and painting the oak panelled wainscots: the present owner is endeavouring as far as possible to reinstate the mansion in its original style: the banqueting room is an Elizabethan erection, with finely carved oak panels, and a fireplace dated 1598: the grand drawing-room, enlarged during the reign of James I. contains a magnificent fireplace rising from the floor to the ceiling, which is richly traced and has pendent bosses with five small carved statuettes, the centre being supposed to represent Pan, and the others are inscribed Prudentia, Arimetica, Geometrica and Justicia, the panelling, like all the apartments, being oak: in the old guest chamber, tradition asserts that Sir Walter Long and Sir Walter Raleigh used to smoke out of silver pipes, this being presumed to be the first house in which tobacco was used in England: the second wife of this Sir Walter Long is the heroine of the legend of the "White Hand:" the blue chamber has two inscriptions, a translation of which is "Every man is the workman of his own fortune" and "To be praised by the good and abused by the bad is praise alike:" a private chapel near the mansion has been converted into a farm house. The park which surrounded the place has been divided into fields and denuded of timber, but even in its decay Wraxhall Manor House tells a tale of former grandeur. Wraxhall Lodge is the seat of Erlysman Pinckney esq. J.P. Walter Hume Long esq. M.P. of Rood Ashton House, is the chief landowner. The area and population is included with Highworth.
